MANY AND VARIED PROGRAMS FOR THANKSGIVING

CHURCHES TO UNITE FOR THANKFUL SERVICE

Impressive Ceremonies Will Take Place; Address By Rev. Cole

Members of every congregation in the city of Glendale will unite this morning in a union Thanksgiving service at the First Congregational church, arranged by the Glendale Ministerial association, of which Rev. J. H. Livingston, of the Casa Verdugo Methodist church is president.

For the time denominational lines will be swept aside and each church give of its best to a program replete with fine things, in the worship of the one God of Christendom. The spirit of Thanksgiving has welded into one great unit the forces of Christianity, and the service will indeed be worthy of such an occasion. Especially impressive will be the congregational singing of "America," bringing home to everyone present that they indeed have cause to be thankful that they are citizens of the greatest nation in the world.

Opening Service

While the congregation is gathering, Miss Lilla Litch will play the "Festival Prelude" by Parker. The service will open by singing the hymn, "Faith of Our Fathers," after which a prayer will be given by Rev. W. E. Edmonds of the Glendale Presbyterian church. A quartet composed of Mrs. John Cole, Mrs. Howard E. Cavanah, Howard E. Cavanah and C. Clifford Riggs will then render "Sing Praise Unto God," by Schnecker.

President Coolidge's wonderful Thanksgiving proclamation, which appears elsewhere in this issue, will then be read by Rev. Ernest E. Ford of the First Baptist church. During the offering, which is for the Near East Relief, Miss Litch will play as an offeratory, Rockwell's "Canzonetta."

Following the Thanksgiving day address, by Rev. Clifford A. Cole of the Central Christian church, the entire congregation will sing "America." Rev. L. J. Millikan of the Broadway Methodist church will pronounce the benediction. As a postlude Miss Litch will play Cole's "Song of Gratitude."

Rev. Cole's Address

Rev. Cole's address will be typical of the spirit of the day. He will enumerate the many things which, as citizens of this country, we have to be thankful for, and will dwell upon the necessity of giving thanks. He will close his address with: "Now abideth these three, prayer, gratitude and thanksgiving, nor is the

Ibanez Seized With Illness on Sea Trip

Three Glendale Football Stars Put Out of Lineup As Result of Injuries

Glendale may enter the game against Santa Monica Saturday in the semi-finals for the Southern California championship minus the services of three of the Red and Black stars.

Fish, who played center against San Bernardino last Saturday, dislocated his shoulder in scrimmage late yesterday afternoon, and carries his arm in a sling. The extent of the injury will be determined today.

Lavelle, the star end, who has played a stellar game both on defense and offense all year, was injured again yesterday and it is very doubtful if he can play this week.

Captain West, who entered the game for the first time in several weeks last Saturday and was hurt again, is not recovering as fast as Coach Hayhurst had hoped, and he stated last night that it was probable he would not be able to start this star back field man.

Zahn will probably play at center, and the back-field will be composed of the two Elliott brothers, Ryan and Walton. Just who will start in Lavelle's place at right end if he is not able to get into the scrimmage has not been decided.

New High School Factor In Educational Advance Of Fastest Growing City

By AL DIX
Of The Evening News Staff.

At this season of the year it is well for residents of this city to pause for a moment and consider the wonderful advantages offered the young people of Glendale by our public schools, the latest addition to which, the new high school on East Broadway, is nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy when school convenes January 2, 1924, after the Christmas holidays.

The older generation should be thankful for the educational opportunities offered today, of which they were deprived, and the young people should express their thanks at this time by devoting their attention to some useful line of endeavor in connection with their high school work which will justify so great an expenditure, and vindicate the faith which their parents have in them by making possible the construction of such a magnificent building.

The first event to be held in the new auditorium will be the variety show to be presented on Thursday and Friday evenings, December 13 and 14. This, however, will not be considered as the formal opening of the school, which will be held at a later date, when it is planned to have the State Superintendent of Public Instruction and other educators of a national reputation here.

Rush Auditorium Work

Work on the auditorium, the most difficult part in respect to construction, was held back for two months because of the inability of the contractor to get steel. Since the arrival of this material, the work has been crowded forward. The reinforced balcony is now completed. The main floor could not be touched for some time because of the scaffolding erected for work on the ceiling and the painters. This has now been removed and the last section of the floor is now being laid.

By a wise forethought on the part of the board of trustees, all the contracts for the furnishings of the building were awarded well in advance, so that they are here at the present time awaiting installation when the various wings of the building are completed.

The 2,100 opera chairs for the auditorium have been here for over two weeks, and the first of these was placed in position yesterday. The special lighting fixtures, which were let under separate contract, are being made and will be installed within the next fifteen days. The contract for the stage settings also specified that the work should be completed for use at the time of the variety show.

The library is furnished with the high quality fixtures put out by the Library Bureau, which are a standard of excellence throughout the entire United States. The floor is covered with inlaid linoleum.

Order Extra Desks

Class room desks and other necessities for the complete furnishing of the school have been ordered to supplant the number already on hand.

The move will be made during the week that school is closed for the teachers' institute, followed

Surplus Turkeys Send Price Down In Many Cities

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The price of turkeys dropped yesterday to about 30 cents a pound, a new low level for the season. Two reasons were given:

One—Abnormal quantities in cold storage.

Two—Heavy recent shipments from Chicago and San Francisco.

Thousands of turkeys are expected to go back into the freezers, unsold.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—The supply of turkeys at 28 cents a pound to consumers, exceeded the demand here yesterday. Producers entering the market direct in a war on wholesalers, made the cheap price possible.

Alleged Booze Runner Wore Officer's Badge

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 29.—Charged with transporting liquor, William Patterson is held here. When taken into custody at the wheel of a high powered motor car, which contained fifteen cases of Scotch whiskey, Patterson carried a Los Angeles deputy sheriff's badge, a loaded gun and a pair of handcuffs, arresting officers said. Patterson said he got the liquor at San Francisco, but the authorities believe it was taken aboard at Pismo where a rum running ship was said to have recently unloaded hundreds of cases of liquor, intended for Christmas consumption in Los Angeles.

Validity of Gasoline Tax Law Faces Test

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 29.—Suit to test the validity of California's 2 cent gasoline tax, levied by the last legislature, will be brought by the Los Angeles Gas and Electric company, according to notice received here from the company by State Comptroller Ray L. Riley. Protesting against the tax, the company charged it was subjected to "double taxation," citing a constitutional amendment which grants public service corporations exemption from special taxes.

Mass Meeting to Discuss Sewer Bonds December 18

A mass meeting in which citizens of Glendale will participate for discussing the proposed sewer bond election will be called for December 18, it was decided at a meeting of the campaign committee in the Chamber of Commerce building last night.

The committee, of which W. E. Hewitt is chairman, also decided to conduct an educational campaign for the purpose of acquainting tax payers with the sewer project and urge them to register for voting on the issue January 8.

The campaign will include community meetings in the various school buildings of the city, in addition to a thorough canvass of the residents by "dodgers," on which will be set forth the salient facts of the bond issue and details concerning construction of the sewer system and its cost to individuals.

PAPER FILES TELL ABOUT HOLIDAYS OF PAST

Issues of Evening News One, Two and Three Years Ago Interest

By H. THOMPSON RICH
Of The Evening News Staff.

A survey of the Thanksgiving issues of The Glendale Evening News of one, two and three years ago furnishes interesting food for rumination. While it is true that this year marks the first time the paper has actually been issued on Thanksgiving day, in years gone by the issue of the day previous carried the news of "Turkey Day" doings about town.

Turning back the pages to a year ago, The News of Wednesday, November 29, 1922, gives the population as 32,000 and the building permits to date as $5,906,500. Union services, it states, were scheduled for 10 o'clock Thursday morning at the Central Christian church, with the sermon by Dr. James F. Winnard, on "Thoughts for Thanksgiving Day," from "Be Ye Thankful," Colossians, 3:15.

Country Club Opens

"Thanksgiving day will be a gala day at the new Sunset Canyon Country club," it says, "for it will mark the formal opening of the attractive clubhouse and nine-hole golf course." It also names the result of the Chamber of Commerce election of directors: George H. Bentley, Earle E. Pendroy, A. R. Eastman, R. F. Kitterman, W. E. Hewitt, P. J. Hayselden, Jesse E. Smith; and the statement is made that at the first meeting of the new board a president will be elected and two additional members appointed to replace those resigned.

This is interesting now, in view of the fact that the directorate of the Chamber of Commerce, ably presided over by Jesse E. Smith for the past year, is now about to turn over the reins to a new group of directors.

This issue also carries the news that owing to the serious illness of President Warren G. Harding's wife, the Thanksgiving dinner at the White House would be a simple one. Few realized then that Mrs. Harding would survive her husband.

Magnus Johnson Gives Address In Capital

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Senator Magnus Johnson (Farmer-Labor) of Minnesota made his first public address in the national capital yesterday before a meeting of Washington business men at a local hotel. He told his hearers he was "no radical," but a "farmer who was sent to the senate to help other farmers get a square deal."

"The farmers are the backbone of the nation," Senator Johnson declared. "If we are happy and prosperous, you are. If we are not, you are not, because you depend on us."

Hitchcock Will Open Johnson Headquarters

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Frank Hitchcock, campaign manager for Hiram Johnson, California aspirant for the Republican presidential nomination in 1924, departed from here on the Twentieth Century Limited yesterday afternoon for New York City. It is understood Hitchcock plans to open eastern campaign headquarters there.

Anti-Klan Bill Is Passed By Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 29.—The amended anti-Klan bill was passed in its entirety by the Oklahoma senate late yesterday afternoon. The vote was 27 to 11. The bill now will go to the house of representatives.

THANKSGIVING!

THREE HUNDRED YEARS and more ago on the first Thanksgiving day a remnant of the little band of pilgrims who had fled to a new world in search of religious liberty, gave thanks for life—for mere existence on a cold, barren, rocky shore. They had so little to be thankful for, and yet so much. Hardships had taught them how to value life—a heart-breaking voyage, months long, in the Mayflower on an unknown sea, beset with storms and calms and, at last, a landing in the snows of Plymouth, scantily clad and provisioned, only to suffer disease and famine and encounters with the savage native tribes.

And yet the few whom God had brought in safety through all these vicissitudes of fortune fell down and worshipped Him and gave Him thanks. And they established institutions to diffuse religion and learning, to teach plain living, high thinking and austere morality. Thus with thanksgiving they laid the foundations of the mightiest nation on earth.

Francis Marion says of the Pilgrims: "Religion had taught them that God created men to be happy; that to be happy they must have virtue; that virtue is not to be attained without knowledge, nor knowledge without instruction, nor public instruction without free schools, nor free schools without legislative order."

The debt the nation owes to its founders is beyond computing. Our citizenship, our legislators and our judiciary are not without faults, by any means, and yet how far our government outshines those older countries established years before the Pilgrims came to Plymouth. How thankful we should be for a nation built upon civil and religious liberty!

What better Thanksgiving tribute could we render the Almighty than a pledge to uphold the constitution of the United States, to support the institutions that have made us a great nation and to give prayerful consideration to the questions that come before us as voters?

And as to material blessings, they are showered upon us in such abundance as our Pilgrim fathers could not dream. How different our lot this Thanksgiving day on this sunny, peaceful shore than that of the Pilgrims at rock-bound, ice-clad Plymouth on the first Thanksgiving day! What wondrous discoveries and inventions have come to make life comfortable and happy for us! How living has been revolutionized in three hundred years! How much of peace and abundance we enjoy!

Let it not be said of us that we as a nation have deteriorated, that our wealth and prosperity have blunted our sense of gratitude to God, that we are less concerned for the fate of the nation, the welfare of posterity and the glory of God than were those who so fearlessly and at so great a cost laid the foundations of our country.

ARREST SUSPECT IN MURDER CASE

Alleged Gang Member Held on Suspicion of Highway Robbery

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—Suspected of being the fourth member of the bandit gang which shot and killed Charles A. Chapman during a holdup, John Geregho was arrested yesterday by deputy sheriffs and booked at the county jail on a charge of suspicion of highway robbery.

The arrest of the fifth, and believed to be last, suspect of the bandit gang was said by the officers to be expected at any moment.

The officers hoped to gain a confession from Jack Ferdinand, Harold Field, I. R. Robertoy, arrested in connection with Chapman's slaying. Ferdinand has been identified by Mrs. Catherine Bohmer, who was with Chapman at the time of the holdup and slaying, as the man who shot Chapman in the back. The officers also declared they believed they would uncover evidence that would link the bandit gang with other crimes committed here recently.

Ferdinand, Field and Robertoy have been identified as the bandits who, on November 19, held up and robbed the postoffice and store at Triumfo, near Ventura.

Mrs. Stokes to Press Chicago Indictments

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Upon reaching Chicago late yesterday afternoon on her trip from New York to visit her children in Denver, Colo., Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes reiterated her intention of not asking officials here to quash the indictments returned against W. E. D. Stokes, her millionaire husband.

"Even the victory I won against Mr. Stokes in the New York courts failed to change my mind regarding the indictments," she explained.

'Not Guilty,' Verdict In Flogging Charge

MARIETTA, Ga., Nov. 29.—The jury in the case of Parks Cook, on trial charged with complicity in the abduction and flogging of Mrs. Bertha Holcombe and her escort, S. H. Morton, on November 16, has returned a verdict of not guilty. The jury at the same time recommended that cases against five other defendants including Keller Hasty, star pitcher for the Philadelphia Athletics, indicted on the same charges, be dismissed.

Mayor Robinson Tells of Glendale's Pressing Need For Modern Sewer System

By SPENCER ROBINSON
Mayor of the City of Glendale

The city of Glendale—THE FASTEST GROWING CITY IN THE WORLD—has outgrown the community stage, the village stage, the small town stage, and within three years—almost overnight, has blossomed into a city. The one-story business building is being replaced with four and five-story structures—tomorrow, figuratively speaking, will come the near sky-scraper. The residence districts are fast being built up with beautiful homes—not two and three room cheap structures, but fine homes—real homes of a type comparable with the best residential districts of Los Angeles, Pasadena, and our neighboring cities.

We who have lived in Glendale and have seen this transformation, are proud of our city. We are boosters and have faith in its future—that we will see it continue as it has in the past. We have a fine water supply and waterworks system, we are rapidly approaching the limit of 100 per cent paved streets, our school system ranks at the top, our new high school building rapidly nearing completion is the last word in modern construction and equipment, new churches, new hospitals, new hotels are being built but as we can honestly and justly point to all these wonderful improvements we are faced with one fact which at present, we do not like to mention—we are the largest city in America without a sewer system.

Cesspools Out of Date

In the past when Glendale was a small town with a comparatively small business section and a more or less sparsely built residential section, we got by with individual cesspools. We were fortunate in being located on a soil with a coarse gravel sub-stratum, that would absorb the water and sewage draining from the cesspools. However, there is a limit to such methods. This gravel deposit will only absorb a certain amount when first used, but will gradually become saturated and clogged with grease, sewage and other solids, reducing its capacity. This limit has been reached in the business district already. The situation there is critical. New cesspools have been built at a cost of several hundred dollars only to become filled, clogged and practically useless in about a week. The city has had to pump this sewage into tanks and haul it away. This costs real money and gives practically no relief. Sewage has overflowed the top of these places and run down the gutters. Numerous complaints have been filed with the City Officials of these conditions and we have racked our brains, spent the City's fund to try to reduce and remedy this condition, but it is beyond our limit at present.

It is safe to say that soon this condition will spread to other parts of the city where apartment houses, bungalow courts, hotels,

Girl Admits Sending Messages of Death

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 29.—The mystery surrounding the sending last Monday of "death messages" to a dozen prominent people residing here for the winter, in which the death of relatives in various parts of the country was announced, was solved when a 16-year-old girl, the daughter of one of the wealthiest families here, confessed to her mother. The girl's name was withheld. When the police were called the girl is said to have demonstrated a strange clairvoyant power and read the minds of those present. In her confession the girl said she had no reason for sending the messages and did not know why she did it.

Fixes Limit on Love Of Mother for Child

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—A "statute of limitations" on mother love was on record in Los Angeles superior court. It was fixed by Judge Edwin Hahn in the case involving the custody of Dorothy Richardson, 13, claimed by her adopted mother, Mrs. Frank Taylor of Pomona, and her natural mother, Mrs. Laura Johnston, of Los Angeles. Judge Hahn ruled that Mrs. Johnston was not entitled to the girl because she waited thirteen years before making a fight for her custody. His decision fixed a 13-year limit on mother love by holding that the love of the child's adopted mother, Mrs. Taylor, was greater than that of Mrs. Johnston.

URGE CRAIG QUIZ

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Resolutions asking congress to inquire into the circumstances surrounding the sentencing of Comptroller Charles L. Craig of New York City to sixty days in jail were forwarded to Craig by the Central Trades and Labor Council of Greater New York and vicinity.

TURKEY WILL BE FEATURE AT DINNER PARTIES

Glendale Residents Prepare For Holiday; Numerous Events Scheduled

THE EVENING NEWS OUT EARLY TODAY

The Glendale Evening News observed Thanksgiving by publishing early this morning. The paper is being delivered "before breakfast" by the big carrier force.

Many and varied programs will mark Glendale's progress through the morning, afternoon and evening hours of its 1923 Thanksgiving Day. Before-breakfast canters over the luring bridle trails in and about Glendale and Montrose will be indulged in by many who love the equestrian sport. Others will rise early and hike through the hills to whet their appetites for the goodly fare the table is to afford later in the day.

The churches of Glendale will unite in Union services at 10 o'clock, in the First Congregational church, with Rev. Clifford A. Cole in charge of the services, full program of which will be found in another column.

Races and Baseball

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon, many who crave speed will journey to the Beverly Hills speedway, to see the fast boys compete in the 250 mile auto race. At 2:30 o'clock, hundreds of ball fans will flock to Glendale's new diamond on San Fernando road at Park avenue, to see the Glendale "White Sox" tangle bats with a fast Palms-Culver City nine.

Others will attend various football games in progress here and there in Southern California cities. Still others will roll the family auto out for an airing. Many, too, will spend the day quietly at home, just as many have already left on week-end trips, visits to relatives or other outings.

Yum! Turkey Dinner!

Then of course, there will be the hundreds, yes, literally thousands of turkey dinners served the length and breadth of Glendale—some just for members of the family, some for reunions of old friends and relatives that bring together ties severed years ago, and still others for young folks engaged to be married or for "newlyweds."

And when the sun sinks and the shades of night fall, closing the day of thanksgiving and rejoicing over the bounties God has bestowed upon the nation and upon Glendale, hundreds will visit the theatres of this and adjoining communities, or will be guests or hosts at innumerable parties, festivities continuing practically until "the witching hour" brings in the new day.

Typical Pilgrim Holiday Menu Is Revealed in Poem

The New England style of Thanksgiving dinner which housewives now accept as a precedent for menu making has only a few features in common with the original feast of 1621.

None of the manuscripts left by the Pilgrims gives the bill of fare for the first Thanksgiving festival, which lasted a week, but they list the supplies the Pilgrims had.

It is recorded that "beside water foule there was great store of wild turkies." There was also sea food, venison, barley loaf and cakes of Indian meal. As for vegetables they are numbered in a rhyme made by His Excellency, the Governor.

All sorts of roots and herbs in gardens grow—
Parsnips, carrots, turnips or what you'll sow,
Onions, melons, cucumbers, radishes,
Skirets, beets, coleworts and fair cabbages.

Although turkey is symbolical of Thanksgiving hospitality, it should divide honors with some dish of cornmeal.

Composite Turkey and Big Mince Pie All Figured Out

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Figures compiled by the chronic statistician this year indicate:

That if all the turkeys eaten at Thanksgiving dinners today were transformed into one gigantic composite fowl, he would tower thirty feet above the torch of the Statue of Liberty, and would be 450 feet long. In fact, he would be so big he probably would scorn the ax "as the tempest scorns the chain," and there would be many "turkeyless" Thanksgiving dinners.

And that if all the mince pies consumed today were, instead, compounded into one huge piece of pastry, the Equitable Building could repose on its massive bosom, and it would be thirty-four feet high. In fact, an ocean of essence of peppermint would be required to neutralize the gastric disturbance it could generate.

EVENTS OF YEAR PASS IN REVIEW

C. of C. Outgoing Board Pass Thanksgiving Resolutions At Final Session

The outgoing board of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, at their final meeting at the Glendale Tavern on Tuesday of this week, unanimously adopted and passed the following Thanksgiving resolution expressing the spirit of appreciation that each one felt for the benefits that have come to Glendale during the year that is drawing to a close.

Whereas, The Glendale Chamber of Commerce this day is closing the most successful year it has known in the history of its existence, due to the hearty cooperation of the City Council and all luncheon and civic clubs throughout the city; and

Whereas, The City Council, working in harmony with the Chamber of Commerce, has brought to completion a contract for an outfall sewer between the city of Glendale and the city of Los Angeles; and

Whereas, Through the advertising brought about by our publicity committee, many thousands of new residents have been brought to Glendale and millions of dollars of new money spent for the erection of new homes, new places of business and a large number of new industries; and

Whereas, The health, happiness and prosperity of our city have been enjoyed by all of our people to a marked degree during the past year; and

Whereas, We have erected a new high school and added new buildings to our grade schools and increased the efficiency of our school system in every way; and

Whereas, A large number of our churches have erected splendid new houses of worship; and

Whereas, Every man, woman and child within the confines of our great city has enjoyed blessings of all kinds never before known; therefore,

Be It Resolved, That this Chamber of Commerce, at this season of Thanksgiving, express our heartfelt thanks and fullest measure of joy to our Heavenly Father for these manifold blessings of prosperity and happiness which have been poured out upon us in such great abundance during the past year.

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to each of our daily papers for publication and also be spread upon our minutes.

The Glendale Chamber of Commerce.
JESSE E. SMITH, President.
E. F. SANDERS, Secretary.

Blissful ignorance will be aroused from its slumber by a sudden attack of unexpected realization.

has completed a very thorough study of the Glendale area and announces that it has increased in population nearly 19 per cent in ten months.

—No haphazard approximations could be considered in preparing for a telephone construction program to be carried out in Glendale during the remainder of this year and early next year involving the expenditure of over $200,000.

—The telephone company also expects Glendale to continue to grow rapidly. Preparedness for this anticipated future growth is seen in the present project to install additional switchboards in the central office at a cost of over $54,000.

13,000 Bottles of Beer Seized by Officials

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Cal., Nov. 29.—More than 13,000 bottles of beer, seized in a canvas covered truck at Santa Margarite, are held here by Sheriff C. J. Taylor. H. E. Soules of San Jose and Harold Baehr of Berkeley, who were taken into custody after the truck was searched, claim that the beer was owned by William Voss of the Salinas Brewing company of Salinas, according to the authorities. The two men refused to divulge the names of persons here to whom the beer was consigned.

Walton Arraignment Delayed Till Monday

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov 29.—The arraignment of former Governor J. C. Walton, of Oklahoma, on seven charges of diverting public funds was continued to Monday.

Judge F. E. Riddle, chief counsel for the defense, announced the first move would be to ask the indictment be quashed on grounds that the jury which returned the indictments was "hand picked."

Invite Governor Hunt To Aid Bridge Plans

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 29.—Governor Hunt has received an invitation to assist in the launching of plans for a highway bridge across the Colorado river at Blythe on December 18. The bridge is planned to supplement the Ehrenberg ferry, which, according to check by California officials, is now handling 2,500 automobiles monthly.

CITY PRINTING

NOTICE OF HEARING ON APPEAL

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Council of the City of Glendale, California, did, at its meeting held on the 22nd day of November, 1923, fix and determine Friday, the 30th day of November, 1923, at the hour of 8 o'clock P. M., at the Council Chamber of the said Council, in the City Hall, No. 619 East Broadway, as the time and place for hearing the appeals filed by Ruth McBryde and others on the 22nd day of November, 1923, with reference to the assessment and diagram issued to E. L. Fleming, contractor, November 9, 1923, to cover the costs and expenses of improving Kenneth Road in the City of Glendale as described in Resolution of Intention No. 1875 of the Council of the said City of Glendale. The said appeal is from the acts and determinations of the Street Superintendent of said City and the appellants claim that the assessment and diagram is incorrect. The points of objections made by the said appellants are the following:

That the Assessments Nos. 128 to 130—147 to 152—169 to 171, are erroneously described in both the assessment diagram and the assessment.

That the above mentioned assessments are owned by three separate owners.

Reference is hereby made to the said appeal which is on file in the office of the City Clerk, and all interested persons are hereby notified that the said appeal will be heard by the said Council in its Council Chamber at the City Hall in the City of Glendale, on the day and hour hereinabove named.

This notice is given pursuant to the direction of the Council of the City of Glendale, California.

A. J. VAN WIE

Interesting Notes Taken From The Evening News Of Recent Years

issue of Wednesday, November 23, 1921, the population is given as 22,000 and the building permits to date as $4,130,780. Union services, it states, were scheduled for 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning at the First Methodist church, with the sermon by Rev. C. W. Calderwood on "Pilgrim Landmarks."

"Mr. and Mrs. E. Ross Celebrate Their Golden Wedding" is one head on page 1. "Glendale will be host on Friday, November 25, to hundreds of visitors," says another item, "when in the afternoon the Glendale Union High school grounds will mark the first tournament held for the horseshoe pitchers of the state."

Rev. and Mrs. R. W. Mottern were to hold a Thanksgiving day duck dinner at their 211 North Adams street home, said one item. An advertisement called attention to the Douglas Fairbanks picture, "The Three Musketeers," showing at the Glendale Theatre.

Recall Those Birds

Over 200 fine fresh turkeys were raffled off by the local Elks on the night of November 21, still another item said, which will doubtless recall fond memories to those who won the historic birds. In order to cover the hundreds of Thanksgiving affairs to take place in Glendale homes, four columns of personal and local notes were carried, in addition to the many longer items.

"Father of Burch Offers Prayer for Guidance in Trial" is a headline on page 1 of this issue that recalls an unsavory Los Angeles criminal case much in the public eye at that time.

Going back to The Glendale Evening News of Wednesday, November 24, 1920, the population is given as 13,000 and the building permits to date as $2,750,000. Union services, it states, were scheduled for 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning, at the First Methodist church, with the sermon by Rev. V. Hunter Brink of the Central Methodist church.

"Nearly every seat in the large assembly hall of the Masonic temple was taken yesterday afternoon," says a page 1 story, "when the meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon club was called to order by Mrs. Charles E. Hutchinson, president," an item which shows that the struggles of that progressive organization had not at that time culminated in even the plans for their present fine clubhouse.

Frame City Charter

Another interesting item of that period in Glendale's history is the following: "The members of the board of freeholders met at the city hall last night to organize and outline plans for the drafting of the freeholders' charter of Glendale. . . . Bert Woodard was elected chairman and Dr. Jessie A. Russell, secretary. . . . The committee unanimously decided to invite the citizens of Glendale to make any suggestion relative to any phase of the charter. . . ."

Still another interesting story tells of the enthusiastic meeting of Brand boulevard property owners, when lowering of the Pacific Electric tracks, "from Colorado street south to the limits of the former city of Tropico," was discussed.

As a final comparison between the Glendale of Thanksgiving day, 1920, and today, the following two advertisements in this issue of three years ago are quoted:

"Southwest corner of Broadway and Orange street, 95x115 feet—$11,000."

"Ten acres in northwest Glendale foothills, set in year-old peach trees—$11,000."

Both of these pieces of property are worth large fortunes today and are highly developed, the former occupied by a brick flat and the latter long since subdivided and built up with costly homes.

Will there still be those three years from today who will in 1926 look back on 1923 with little to be thankful for on Thanksgiving day, because they failed to buy Glendale property before the city went to 100,000 population?

Three Gunmen Sought In New York Killing

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Complete confessions were made dy Morris and Joseph Diamond brothers, charged with homicide and robbery in the $43,000 holdup and murder of two bank messengers in Brooklyn, November 14. District Attorney Charles Dodd, of Brooklyn, announced the brothers had denied firing the shots that killed the two messengers and named three gunmen as the actual killers. Police have broadcast descriptions of the three named by the Diamonds to police throughout the country.

BROTHERS SENTENCED

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 29. — Two years in the penitentiary was the sentence meted out by Federal Judge Wolverton to John Foster, 20, and his brother, Carl, 18, following their conviction of transporting Ruby Munz, 15, and Erma Morrow, 15, in an automobile from Modesto, Cal., to Roseburg, Ore., October 23.

WHITE SLAVE CHARGE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29. — Federal authorities are holding Herbert Hunt, arrested on a white slavery charge, pending removal to Denver, where he is wanted. Involved in the case with Hunt is Ruth Barnes, whom Hunt is said to have transported here for immoral purposes.

Mr. Gobbler Has No Reason to Give Thanks

George Washington's Proclamation, January, 1795

When we review the calamities that afflict so many other nations, the present condition of the United States affords much matter of consolation and satisfaction. Our exemption hitherto from foreign war, an increasing prospect of the continuance of that exemption, the great degree of internal tranquillity we have enjoyed, the recent confirmation of that tranquillity by the suppression of an insurrection, which so wantonly threatened it, the happy course of our public affairs in general, the unexampled prosperity of all classes of our citizens, are circumstances which peculiarly mark our situation with indications of the divine beneficence toward us. In such a state of things it is in an especial manner our duty as a people, with devout reverence and affectionate gratitude, to acknowledge our many and great obligations to Almighty God, and to implore Him to continue and confirm the blessings we experienced.

Deeply penetrated with the sentiment, I, George Washington, President of the United States, do recommend to all religious societies and denominations, and to all persons, whomsoever, within the United States, to set apart and observe Thursday, the 19th day of February next, as a day of public thanksgiving and prayer, and on that day to meet together and render sincere and hearty thanks to the great Ruler of nations for the manifold and signal mercies which distinguish our lot as a nation; particularly for the possession of constitutions of government which unite, and by their union establish liberty with order; for the preservation of our peace, foreign and domestic; for the reasonable control which has been given to a spirit of disorder in the suppression of the late insurrection, and generally for the prosperous condition of our affairs, public or private, and at the same time humbly and fervently beseech the kind Author of these blessings graciously to prolong them to us; to imprint on our hearts a deep and solemn sense of our obligations to Him for them; to teach us rightly to estimate their immense value; to preserve us from the arrogance of prosperity and from hazarding the advantages we enjoy by delusive pursuits; to dispose us to merit the continuance of His favors by not abusing them, by our gratitude for them, and by a corresponding conduct as citizens and as men to render this country more and more a safe and propitious asylum for the unfortunate of other countries; to extend among us true and useful knowledge; to diffuse and establish habits of sobriety, morality and piety, and finally to impart all the blessings we possess or ask for ourselves to the whole family of mankind.

In testimony whereof I have caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed to these presents, and signed the same with my hand. Done at the city of Philadelphia the first day of January, 1795.

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

MAYOR TELLS OF NEED FOR SEWER

Largest City In America Without Facilities for Handling Sewage

schools, hospitals, and even in the residential districts as every lot is built upon. It will come very quickly to those sections of the city that are built upon a clay or close silt soil.

If Glendale is to continue as a modern city and not be placed in a class of a city in the uncivilized countries where sewage flows in the gutters, we must construct a sewer system and do it as soon as possible.

Former Plans Failed

We have talked sewer systems for several years. Various schemes have been proposed for disposing of the sewage by treatment plant. One plant was built for the Verdugo district, but before it could be placed in operation the tract upon which it was located was sold, sub-divided, and now beautiful homes are being built all around it. Another scheme was Scholl Canyon, for a sewage plant and farm; now it is being built up with homes, and so it goes with other tracts that have been suggested.

Glendale is practically surrounded with incorporated cities and there is only one way left to go to avoid trouble, law-suits and what-not and that is, to the ocean thirty or more miles away, an impossible financial obligation to try to do alone.

Every suggestion of combining with Los Angeles or connecting to the Los Angeles sewer system, has always brought the old-time-worn subject—"we can't without annexation." This has been removed after months of hard work, in securing an agreement with the City of Los Angeles, whereby Glendale can secure this connection. This agreement provides that Glendale build a sewer to a place where there is now sufficient capacity in the Los Angeles system to take the flow of Glendale. In order to compensate the proportionate share of cost from this point to the ocean outlet, the contract provides that this sewer shall be of size to care also for the sewage from the City of Los Angeles contiguous to this sewer that is not now served.

Plans Are Prepared

The city has employed a firm of consulting engineers to prepare the plans, specifications and estimates on this outfall, and to also design the collecting mains and lateral system in the City of Glendale.

On January 8, 1924, the voters of Glendale will be given the opportunity to vote to ratify the contract with the City of Los Angeles and to vote bonds that will provide a sewer system that will be ample for all future needs and wipe out the ill-fitted condition of the largest city without sewers.

A few facts about the system are as follows: The outfall sewer is designed to serve a population of over 1,000,000, so that it will be a long time before another sewer will have to be built. The collecting mains in Glendale are designed to carry the sewage from all the territory now within the city limits and that which will have to come our way sooner or later when every lot on this territory has a business house, residence or some sort of a structure built upon it. In other words, when the city has grown to the limit of destiny of population. The intercepting mains will be extended to every section of the city, so that every part of the city can be served—for example, one main will be extended on San Fernando road to almost the city limits of Burbank, so that the northwestern part can be served; another on Dryden, serving the territory north of the Verdugo wash, and also providing an outlet for a sewer system already partly built on Verdugo Canyon and "no place to go." Another up Sycamore Canyon and Scholl Canyon; one on Colorado for the business district; and others in the southern part of the city. Approximately 28 miles of outfall and main intercepting sewers will be built, and built of the best type of construction, with ample capacity for the future. The existing systems now serving a small portion of the business district and the system on Verdugo Canyon that cannot be used, can be placed in operation as soon as these mains are constructed.

The city of Glendale will not have to build any sewage treatment plants, operate and maintain them, fight our neighbors in law-suits about odors and nuisances that might come from a plant located in our midst.

Total Cost $1,600,000

The total cost of construction of the Los Angeles outfall connection, intercepting mains in Glendale, right-of-way costs, engineering and incidentals, is estimated at $1,600,000.

If these bonds are not voted on January 8 the contract with Los Angeles becomes void and the chances are very probable that Glendale will never have another chance. The contract with Los Angeles is fair and equitable to both cities.

Certain parties have made the statement that, if Glendale annexed to Los Angeles, Los Angeles will have to take care of us. The facts are that it will take at least four or five years before Los Angeles can build this sewer, and what will we do in the meantime? The city would have to pay a large portion of the cost of this line and all of the sewers in Glendale and also share the costs of the outfall sewer, disposal plant, ocean outfall, and other bond issues on water, light, harbor, city hall, etc., etc. The route of the outfall line is through a territory that is rapidly being built up with industries, railroad tracks, houses, and each year as these obstructions increase, the right-of-way easements and costs increase, and greatly increase construction costs. It can never be built any cheaper. The old adage runs—"Opportunity Knocks But Once"—and now is this opportunity here. It might be added, however, that there are some people who "knock" more than once.

PLANS TO CLOSE ESPIONAGE CASES

Coolidge Picks Commission To Report on Political War Prisoners

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—Hope for early extension of executive clemency in the cases of the remaining "political prisoners" now serving terms in various federal penal institutions for violations of war-time espionage laws has been received here. It became known that President Coolidge has appointed a commission of three prominent Americans to study the remaining cases and advise him.

The members of the presidential commission are former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker of Cleveland; former major-general and Chief of Staff of the Army, James G. Harbord, and Bishop W. F. Brent, of the Episcopal church, former chief of chaplains in the A. E. F.

This commission was appointed three weeks ago, but announcement was withheld because the members wished to undertake a review of the cases without being flooded with recommendations and appeals from friends of those imprisoned. It met in Bishop Brent's offices in Buffalo a week ago and now is understood to be preparing a report.

There are approximately 28 cases still within the category of "political offenses."

Most ancient copper objects found are about 10,000 years old.

GUESS SEEDS IN PENDROY PUMPKIN

Tie for First Prize Forces Winners to Draw For Coveted Premium

The big pumpkin contest that was held by the Pendroy Store, closed Wednesday night, after an intense and sustained interest had been shown by the women who patronize the store, and who cast a large number of votes.

The guesses ran over a wide range, but at least half of them centered around 800 to 1000. The correct number of seeds in the big pumpkin was 928, the count being made in the presence of two uninterested parties, Miss M. Hill, 519 North Louise street, and Jean Gorton, 211 East Lomita avenue, who were in the store at the time the pumpkin was cut and who consented to oversee the counting and witness that all was fair and square.

The following were declared winners: First prize, a beautiful Old Bleach linen table cloth and napkins to match, resulted in a tie vote between Mrs. H. L. Bocock, 333 West Patterson avenue, and Miss Ruth Ryan, 1425 Highland avenue, both registering a guess of 927. According to the terms of the contest, the winners will have to decide by drawing for the prize, so these women will have to come to Pendroy's store and draw.

The second prize, a pair of $10 Skinner satin slippers, with rhinestone pins or buckles, goes to Mrs John McDonald, 414 West Broadway, whose guess was 926. The third prize was won by Miss Ethel McNaughton, 443½ West Oak street, with a guess of 932.

FAMILY BATTLES IN DEATH TRIAL

Father, Mother, Daughter In Grim Fight to Escape Murder Charge

By RUSSELL H. PETERS
For International News Service

SEWARD, Neb., Nov. 29.—The three Vajgrts, father, mother and 15-year-old daughter, with a battery of legal counsel, are fighting in district court here to save themselves from a charge of first degree murder.

The simple Bohemian farmer and his family were taken into custody following the death of Antone Lana, 35, farm hand in the employ of Vajgrt, who was found in a hay pile on the farm, shot in two places and fearfully battered.

Repudiate Confession

Confession followed confession until only the four young children who complete the family were free from connection with the murder, and first confessions were so rapidly repudiated that when charges were filed against the Vajgrts there was no way of telling who actually led the attack on Lana.

Every confession agreed, however, that Lana met his death after a terrific struggle in a little straw shed on the farm, because he had betrayed the young daughter, and then threatened to leave, or else kill her should she attempt to hinder his going.

Vajgrt declared, soon after he was lodged in the county jail, that his daughter, like her mother before her, was entirely ignorant of sex, and that, had she known, the tragedy would have been averted.

Tells Pathetic Story

Dull eyed and head bowed down, Vajgrt, in halting English, poured forth his pathetic story of a lifetime of hard work on his little farm outside Milford, Neb.

His confession placed before him, he signed it, saying, "The good times I have had in my life I can count on the fingers of one hand."

THEATRES

THE GLENDALE

"Blinky," Gene Markey's popular magazine story of army life, comes to the Glendale Theatre in film form as a special Thanksgiving ady attraction, starting the Universal favorite, Hoot Gibson, in one of his best rcles.

Instead of the sombrero, chaps and six-shooter, conventional trappings of the so-called "Wild West," Hoot launches forth this time in the trim uniform of a lieutenant of U. S. infantry. And though his adventures are fully as thrillin g as heretofore, a new vein of comedy runs through the picture.

Hoot plays the part of Geoffrey Arbuthnot Islip, nicknamed "Blinky" because of his spectacles. Commissioned through the influence of his father, known as "Raw Meat" Islip, Blinky shows that he has the stuff of which officers are made, independent of paternal persuasion.

THE GATEWAY

Douglas McLean in "Going Up," the special Thanksgiving day offering at the Gateway Theatre, uncorks a nifty variety of high altitude comedy with a kick, guaranteed to convulse audiences not altogether soured on life.

The plot of the story, which is taken from the great New York stage success of that name, based in turn on "The Aviator," concerns a young chap who has to fly an airplane and can't. Like every other star, McLean appears to best advantage when his story material is adequate, and in "Going Up" he has the best vehicle of his career, not excepting "The Hottentot" and "Twenty-Three and a Half Hours Leave."

His capable support includes Marjorie Daw, Hughie Mack, Francis McDonald and Edna Murphy. Lloyd Ingraham swung the megaphone, and swung it nobly. The result is a fully qualified motion picture success.

Ministers of Glendale Outline Number of Reasons Why People Should Pause and Give Thanks On This Day, Especially Set Apart

Feeling that it was proper at this season of the year to ask the cooperation of the ministers of the city to set before the people the many things that Glendale citizens have, for which to give thanks, The Evening News requested an expression from them for publication in this paper. The different communications are given below. They present in themselves a synopsis of the many blessings which it has been our privilege to enjoy during the past year, and express a confidence in the continuance of these in the future. Unbounded faith in this city is shown, not alone from a spiritual, but from a material point of view as well. The following answers to The Evening News' inquiry were received:

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

REV. E. E. FORD, pastor

The pastors and people of the First Baptist church have abundant reason for lifting grateful hearts to the Hevenly Father for all His many blessings to us durfuling the past year. In many ways it has been the best year in the history of the church. We are grateful for the spirit of harmony, and the united effort of the members in advancing the Kingdom of Christ in all the world. We are grateful to Almighty God for lives spared; so few of our members have been called away by death, homes have been unbroken, our great family continues to grow with little loss. We are glad that our church is in the fast growing city of Glendale; glad for its homes, for its schools, for the many men and women who are seeking to build up a clean city. We rejoice with our sister churches in their prosperity, and growing usefulness. We are glad for the many new church buildings which add beauty and stability to our city as a whole; and for the added usefulness to the coming generation, who will learn life's richest lessons from the Book of Books. We are looking forward with thankfulness to the time when we too will have a new and much needed building to properly house our growing congregations and afford larger and better equipment for our over-crowded Sunday School.

We are thankful to the Giver of all good gifts for sending to us our associate pastor, Rev. Charles H. Tilden and his wife. Mr. Tilden comes with training on the mission field, and we are glad and thankful to have some one bring us first hand knowledge of our work in the far away fields. The pastors are thankful for the hearty and loyal co-operation of the membership of the church. It is a joy to work with so united a people. We are thankful for their love and unfailing kindness.

We are hoping that by another Thanksgiving, we shall be looking back in grateful acknowledgment to God for giving us more work room for our Sunday School, and a more beautiful place to worship. Each member of the Baptist church is saying: "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and all that is within me, bless His Holy Name."

SEVENTH DAY ADVENTIST CHURCH

R. W. PARMELE, pastor

The Glendale Seventh-day Adventist church has many reasons for observing this Thanksgiving day in an appropriate manner. While several times the angel of death has visited our flock during the past year, we feel consoled by the thought that those taken from us were ready to go. Our members have been greatly blessed in a temporal and spiritual way, and our institutions have enjoyed an excellent patronage. The new home of our sanitarium is rapidly nearing completion, without serious mishap to either workmen or building. When completed, it will be prepared to do the best service for suffering humanity obtainable, beautiful for situation, modern to the minute, and with a devoted corps of physicians, nurses and helpers.

During the past year, our school has come into possession of a tract of over 10 acres of land, means have been provided by friends and patrons that has enabled us to erect a splendid, modern academy building. The patronage has wonderfully increased, and we have been enabled to secure the services of a corps of teachers, that are both competent and thoroughly devoted to their work.

Naturally, we would observe this Thanksgiving day with festivities and rejoicing, but we have preferred to adopt another course. Recently the vice-president of our General Conference for Europe, visited Glendale, and told us of the great suffering in Europe, which brought fresh and very forcibly to our minds, the needs of a suffering world. Our congregation at that time gave a contribution for the relief of Europe, amounting to nearly $1,000, and later decided that the most appropriate way to celebrate this Thanksgiving week, would be to participate in the sacrifices that are forced upon our brethren of other lands, and give the saving, together with the earnings of the week to Christian work in the regions beyond.

We are thankful for the prosperity of the world-wide gospel work of our church. In Europe thus far this year, about 15,000 people have united with our churches, and in heathen lands, the story is about the same. Chiefs even in cannibal islands have sent delegations to request us to enter their territories. Believing, as we do, that the time has come for "the Gospel of the Kingdom" to "be preached in all the world," we have done our utmost to respond to all these calls, until at the present time, our representatives are at work in every country of consequence on the globe, preaching the glad tidings of salvation through Christ alone, in 179 languages. For God's protecting care over his world-wide work, the workers and the members as has been shown in many thrilling experiences during the past year, we return our thanks on this Thanksgiving day; and we join with all others in thanksgiving for the innumerable other blessings from His bountiful hand.

GLENDALE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor

The members and officials of the Glendale Presbyterian church are thankful for another year of organized existence with all that it has brought of privilege and opportunity. During this period the visits of the death angel have been infrequent and the health of the people has been exceptionally good. Our constituency has been blessed richly in a material way. We rejoice in the fact that the new church is practically completed though we pause when we remember the additional responsibility which this wealth of equipment brings to us. While we rejoice in constantly increasing numbers we rejoice still more in that our membership is growing in grace and in knowledge of Him whom to know is eternal life. For all blessings past and present we raise our voices in a paean of grateful praise to Him from whom all blessings flow. We have very much to be thankful for as a congregation; but we have also not a little to cause us to bow in humiliation before our Maker, and our gratitude will be all the more genuine if we remember how ill-deserved are the blessings by which it is called forth.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Rev. C. M. Calderwood, pastor

We are thankful for the Church of God, for the radiant record of her triumphs, for her miracles of grace, for her cloud of witnesses, for her martyrs who have been faithful unto death.

We are thankful for the church's prophets of the Word, for her sweet singers, who by their hymns, have enriched our devotions, and for her heralds of the cross who have labored in obscure parts of the field.

We are thankful for her faith, her courage, her sacrifice, her truth and for her inconceivable wealth and glory which is yet to be revealed.

We are thankful for our country. We glory in her hallowed privileges and freedom. We are proud of her men and women who have consecrated their strength to her highest good.

We rejoice in the enlightened laws of our country, in her wise restriction of personal liberty and in her potential idealism.

We are thankful for the larger vision of God's people, for the wider fraternal sympathy and for the Divine Love in men that seeks the peace and good-will of the race.

We are thankful for the ideals that beckon us on and for the revelation, the mercies, the loves, the truths that bring us nearer to the living God and our Blessed Saviour.

CASA VERDUGO METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. J. H. Livingston, Pastor.

You ask for what Casa Verdugo church finds itself grateful at this Thanksgiving time.

Well, me thinketh first that as we look upon these everlasting hills that lean against the sky, we want to catch the cadence of the echoes as they fall from slope, and canyon, and grotto, and join in one glad symphony of praise in that the lines have fallen to us in a place so beautiful for situation.

Then, too, we'll want to thank Almighty God for blessed associations. Surely out of here and there a kindly providence has given the urge of his magic touch in bringing together here such a goodly company of those who are like unto the "salt of the earth." Hence, we fathers and mothers, husbands and wives, brothers and sisters, pastors, teachers, stewards, directors, co-workers in a Christian commonwealth, join the hallelujahs of the devout who sing "Praise God from whom all blessing flow."

Moreover, we shall not forget the shaping hand so manifest in all the providential destiny of this our beloved land.

History hints that as early as the fifth century the Chinese had found these shores, and near—though how near—the Mohammedans came does not appear. They tell us now that five hundred years before Columbus, the Norsemen found this "distant land." But America, this land of opportunity, was not to be shaped by the false prophets of Mohammed or Confucius, nor the dreamy philosophies of the Norsemen—not even to the Cave-dwellers or the Aztecs, the earliest settlers and inhabitants, was the land given, for here was to be reserved a land in which all men should be privileged to "worship God beneath their own vine and fig-tree, none daring to molest or make afraid." For all these mercies and their attending blessings we at Casa Verdugo devoutly raise our tribute of praise.

IDENTIFIES BANDITS

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 29.—The three Dautremont brothers wanted in the state of Oregon for robbery and murder constituted the trio who robbed the Cuba bank and escaped with approximately $8,000 in cash, according to a belief expressed by E. A. Townsend, local postmaster. Cuba is near here.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

Dr. Henry I. Rasmus, Sr., pastor

The Glendale Evening News is asking for some of the reasons why the First Methodist Episcopal church of Glendale is grateful on this wonderful Thanksgiving day.

Fully enumerated, they would be a thousand. Among the first reasons would be the fact that we are in Glendale—most truly a representative city of American life. A wonderful expression of cosmopolitan condition without the reprehensible lines of caste and decided social distinction.

Gratitude is the fairest flower that blooms in the human heart. In this church it is abundant, for the success that has come to all of its departments of religious activities. Gratitude for the Sunday School overcrowded—with not sufficient room to accommodate the adults and children who flock to this early morning study of the Word of God.

Gratitude for the people who come to its services for a gospel which is the Bread of Life.

Gratitude for the service it is rendering to the community in all that is recognized as the work of the church.

Gratitude for the past rich blessings and for those which are to come in the anticipation of special revival effort to be entered into during the first of the year.

Gratitude for all that Christ is to those who will come to Him by Faith.

FIRST LUTHERAN CHURCH

Dr. H. C. Funk, pastor

Touching on the subject of Thanksgiving, Dr. Funk declared that his congregation had many things to be grateful for on this Thanksgiving Day.

It is a good thing to feast occasionally; but we should go to the feast by way of sacrifice, and it is especially for the many spiritual gifts and opportunities that we are grateful to God. We are thankful to God for the new friends He is raising up for our cause. The Church is the Pride of Christ. He loved the Church, and gave himself for it.

What a wonderful thing it is to live in a time like this! So we are also grateful to Him for life. It is true that there are some storms, even in California, but there are many more days of sunshine than of rain; and, if we will but count them up, we shall find that there are more days of pleasure than of pain. But to live, to have life, and to have it abundantly, we must have Christ. Moreover, if we would get the most out of life we must do as Jesus did, and he lived for others.

A grateful disposition is the most beautiful thing in the world. On the other hand ingratitude, that marble-hearted fiend, is the most unlovely thing of all. Selfishness cannot long endure in a devoted Christian heart.

TROPICO PRESBYTERIAN

Dr. James Winnard, Pastor.

Among the things for which the Tropico Presbyterian church has to be thankful for at this time is, first of all, the spirit of thankfulness.

We would not just take to ourselves all our blessings and not acknowledge the Giver of Every Good and Perfect Gift. But we would in all sincerity call upon our souls and all that is within us to praise and bless His holy name. We are thankful that under his Divine leadership our church has increased in its membership sixty per cent in the past twelve months. That there are abundant evidences of the work of His Spirit in the deepening of the spiritual life of many of the members and this shown in very practical ways.

We are thankful for the volunteer prayer bands both of men and women, for we know that more things are wrought by prayer than the world dreams of. We are thankful for the large body of young people in both the Sabbath school and the Christian Endeavor society, for we know that as the young people of today are trained in the things of the Kingdom, so will the Kingdom be in the years to come.

We are thankful for the spirit of liberality of the people. That every demand is met, and that in some departments the entire quota of benevolences has already been raised even though four months still remain of the church year. While some are giving thanks for their new church buildings, and we rejoice with them, yet we are thankful that we do not need a new building; that those who planned our building planned for the needs of the community for years to come. We are thankful for a growing appreciation of the work of the church in the community and for the apparent growing in favor of God and man. For these things and many more unnamed but none the less appreciated blessings we give thanks today.

least of these thanksgiving."

The full text of his address follows:

Anniversaries are guide posts, pointing back over the way on which we have journeyed and forward into the unknown future toward which they help us to face with confidence. Memorial Day, Independence Day, Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays inspire patriotism and devotion to true citizenship. Thanksgiving Day calls for recognition of the Divine guidance and loving beneficenses of our Father in Heaven. On this day we renew our loyalty and express our gratitude to Him for another year of providential care and prosperity.

"The religious aspect of the day is sacred to every thoughtful heart. Its observance originated in the conviction that God is; that He is over all, the fountain of all blessings, the Sovereign Ruler and Disposer of all events; that, however men may plan and prosecute, with Him are the issues of life. We cannot afford to surrender the stamp of religiousness that our fathers placed upon the day. It would indeed be deplorable should we permit it to degenerate into an occasion for unseemly festivity and revelry and excessive feasting.

Unique Position of U. S.

"The very keeping of a national Thanksgiving Day sets the U. S. apart as occupying a unique position among the nations of the earth. There is no other country that honors God in this way. It distinguishes us as a Christian nation. Christianity is interwoven with all the fibers of our national existence. For this we should humbly thank the God of nations. Surely He has led us on and is holding us for a great and mighty task that is dear to His great heart and shall bless the world.

"In the far-away Old Testament days one of the singers cried out with enthusiasm and rapture, 'Happy is the people whose God is the Lord.' We, of today, have even more reason for such an enthusiasm. The Jews were a small nation. From the beginning of their existence through the long, slow centuries, they have been, like their own beloved prophet Daniel, a people in a fiery furnace. Yet no literature is so full of thanksgiving as theirs. Surely, our nation, grown greater than any other nation that has yet appeared on the earth, should thank God for His goodness and mercy, for His bounty and boundless blessings to our great people.

Should Not Forget God

"Our danger is the danger of all prosperous people, that we will forget God. Wealth is desirable, but without God it is not possible to keep it from being a curse. Our 'fields of waving grain,' our beautiful homes, our commerce on seven seas, and even our institutions of art, and learning and science will prove as bitter as worm-wood and as unsatisfying as chaff unless above and through all we see and feel and recognize God. Our thanksgiving, if earnest and true, will be our salvation, for thereby we own that it is all a gift, and thereby will we tacitly proclaim ourselves stewards of the goods we control.

"We should be thankful today because, while others have been shaken by earthquake and starved by the terrible aftermath of the war, our country has had freedom from those blights, and our people are for the most part happy and prosperous; because God keeps the heart of America disquieted and unhappy if the pathetic voice of a hungry child anywhere in the world cries for bread; because He keeps us sensitive to the sins of our land, and gives us the spirit to fight them. It looks black enough when we see red-handed crime, by day and night, stalk through the land, when we are confronted by the brazen lawlessness in high places and low, when we note the treasonable tendencies of certain great newspapers and of a few senators and representatives, and when we think of the selfish partisanship which has held us back from helping the world out of its welter of misery and war. But even in these we have the joy of knowing they are only temporary and that there are still more good people than bad in the U. S., that those who favor the good are more than those against them. The better forces of our land undoubtedly have the upper hand, and we are not going backward toward the cave but forward toward the New Jerusalem.

Cause for Thanksgiving

"But after we have said all about the material progress and achievements of our people, and in spite of the frequent lugubrious and pessimistic notes we hear, we have our greatest cause for thanksgiving in the spirituality of our people. Our people are a religious people. Everywhere there are proofs that men believe in God and in Jesus Christ, the Lord. Scarcely ever will you meet a man who resents prayer, or the presence of the Bible, and who does not love the sign of the church and the thoughts of eternal life. Our faults are many, our nation is young. We have our grave sins and disheartening shortcomings, and like a big family, we have our conflicts and heartaches and tears, but despite it all we have happiness and an unshakeable faith in the true and living God.

"How our hearts respond to the messages which have recently been the burdens of some of our great men! Our lamented president, Harding, became in those last great days a preacher of righteousness; his successor declares he believes with his whole heart in the proclamation of Mr. Harding that our great hope is in the teachings of Jesus Christ. Our beloved ex-President Wilson declares to the whole world that it cannot be redeemed materially unless it is saved materially. It's a good day for the world when its leaders become proclaimers of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Oh, blessed is that nation whose God is the Lord!

Appreciate Our Blessings

"But, my neighbors and friends, whilst we are American citizens and are intensely in earnest over the welfare or shortcomings of our country, my best word on this occasion, it seems to me, should be a personal word. You and I can better serve our country and take joy in its achievements if we are ourselves, down deep in our own hearts, appreciative of the blessings and bestowments of our heavenly Father, appreciative of the common and every-day possessions and experiences of this work-a-day environment of ours.

"May we not think—and think and thank are the same word at the bottom—for a little while about some personal and common blessings, forgetting to compare ourselves with our neighbors? Comparisons in this respect are both odious and dangerous. We are prone to think of the things we do not possess and not of what we have.

Distribution of Bibles

"After all we can say about the unequal distribution of the good things, the fact remains that the gifts are more equally distributed than we are ready to acknowledge. Oh, things like diamonds and palaces and Cadillacs are not evenly parceled out, but those are the cheap things of the world. The best and the highest are given out with the generosity worthy the hand of a LOVING Father.

"HEALTH AND SLEEP. They are not quoted on the markets, but are more valuable than all the commodities of earth. If these are yours, gratitude should flow like a fountain, day and night.

"SIGHT AND HEARING. To be able to look upon the beauties of nature is glorious beyond description. Better work hard in an obscure nook and SEE than to sit on the throne blind. The singing of birds, the prattle of little children, the murmuring of streams and the melodies of music—God made them all and fashioned an organ to convey them to the soul. What would you take in exchange? Then these words should ascend daily to the great Giver, 'Bless the Lord, O my soul.'

"FRIENDS. He who has a friend is rich beyond compare. Yet, we take our friends as a matter of course—a part of our natural heritage, like sunshine and air. We sometimes thank God for them, but we seldom enough thank them. Oh, yes, we knew they were our friends all the time, but we were not reminded of it till it was too late.

Joys at Home

"The love of parents, the affections of brothers and sisters, the help of teachers, the companionship of good books, the gift of children, the joys of home, the fellowship of citizens of the Kingdom of God—are OURS. Oh, everything that is best, is scattered with such a lavish hand that we don't know how rich we are till we sit down and reckon our treasures, or until they are taken away.

"Can I be thankful for the storms, the tears, the tribulations and for suffering? Yes, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ. When I stand right up under the cross and look into the face of my dying Christ and see there the love He bore for me, then and then only can I have faith to look down into the mysteries of this life, its groanings mixed with its laughter, its tears with its songs, its disappointments mixed with its victories, its births with its deaths, and say, 'Most merciful Father, for all these I thank Thee.'

Remember the Needy

"It is easy for you and me, with all the harvest in, with prosperity poured into our laps, to sit down with our families around us before a 20-pound turkey, and be thankful. But, if we are really thankful, if we have thankful hearts, our meal ought to choke us if we have not tried and are not attempting to feed starving children and to bind up broken hearts and to remember it is enjoined upon us, 'Freely ye have received, freely give.'

"Don't forget this story I am about to tell. It indicates a sublime vision of God's goodness and expresses what should well up in your heart today. A poor woman and her two children were destitute. In the depths of winter they were nearly frozen, and the mother took the door of the cellar off the hinges and set it up before the corner where they crouched down to sleep, that some of the draught and cold might be kept from them. One of the children whispered to her: 'Mother, what do those poor children do who have no cellar door to put up in front of them?' There are few people who cannot 'count their blessings' if they only wish to.

"Then we say, 'Oh, I can't complain.' My God, I should say not. Let's never say it again. Better say, 'Oh, I have everything to be grateful for. I cannot count my blessings.'

"A purring cat on a hearthstone may feel very warm and fine, and have about the same sort of personal comfort that some people mistake for religious gratitude. But real gratitude, in order to have any existence at all, must be of a different kind and a higher sort. It must be able to praise God when the fire has gone out and the hearthstone is cold. It must speak out in thanksgiving even when there is not much comfort, when the night is dark, and when the material sources of pleasure seem to slip away from us. Thanksgiving and praise do not wait the sunshine and the pleasant days.

Expression in Prayer

"CHRISTIAN, be glad. The religion the Bible promotes is a religion of joy and thanksgiving. The sunless superstitions which cast their gloom over the hearts of whole races of men have no place in the religion of hope. JOY is the dominant note of the Bible, as it is of a man whose nature has not been disturbed by error, whose life is spent in blessing others. Thanksgiving is a grace. But it is far more. It is a cultivated habit of life. Thanksgiving, like waters from the fountain, will come unbidden from the overflowing heart.

"Prayer is the open hand, gratitude is the responsive heart, thanksgiving is the songful lips. The hand asks a gift from the giver, the heart answers back to the gift, the lips answer back to the giver. Ten prayed for cleansing, ten were cleansed, one alone honored the Master because he alone was thankful. No speech so becomes the beneficiary, no words are so sweet to the benefactor as the utterance of thanks. Now abideth these three, prayer, gratitude, thanksgiving; nor is the least of these thanksgiving."

PACIFIC AVENUE M. E.

Rev. H. C. Mullen, Pastor.

The Pacific Avenue Community Methodist church seeks at this national Thanksgiving season, to "give thanks in everything," mindful that "this is the will of God in Christ Jesus." This church is not ungrateful for the measure of prosperity which it has enjoyed, nor for the like blessings that have come to its people during the past year. But we recognize that there is a far greater occasion, and more exalted ground of thanksgiving than can possibly be found in material prosperity or physical well-being. It is easy to place too great emphasis on the tangible evidences of life's blessings and overlook the far weightier reasons for thankfulness to be found in the realms of grace and character. We are prone to value too highly the golden coins which fall from the treasury of God into our lives, and conversely, to value too little the changeless ministry of God's love which makes us the children of His grace and the heirs of His immortality.

"Everything" embraces more than the eyes see or the hands touch. It has to do with those divine, spiritual forces which operate upon the souls of men, and find expression in the varied experiences of life. So we strive to be thankful not only for sunshine, but for shadows; not only for songs, but for sorrows; in a word, for all that the heavenly Father sends or permits, or prevents. And supremely, this church is thankful for Christ, its Savior and Lord, and for the Holy Spirit, the Comforter and enricher of its life, and for the Father's providential care which sanctifies all sorrow and joy, pain and pleasure, loss and gain to the ennoblement and transformation of character into the likeness of himself.

Drug Store Robbery Yields Bandits $2

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—Two holdup men secured $2 from S. Katman when they held up his drug store in Huntington Park and robbed T. Hedley, who was in the store, of a $500 personal check. While one of the robbers entered the store and put over the robbery the other remained in a waiting automobile, in which they escaped. The license number of the car was secured and a search extended over Southern California was started for the bandits.

President Passes On Craig Case Records

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The entire record in the case of Comptroller Charles L. Craig of New York City, whom President Coolidge has been asked to pardon to keep from serving a sixty day jail sentence for contempt of court, was reviewed yesterday afternoon in a conference at the White House between the president and Attorney-General Daugherty.

After the conference Daugherty said his opinion on the president's power to issue a pardon to Craig would be rendered after he had consulted with District Attorney Heyward and Judge Meyer in New York.

LIFE IN GERMAN CITIES REVEALED

Writer Says Citizens Starve As Mark Strikes New Lower Levels

Editor, Glendale Evening News—I am very much interested in Mr. Kirk's letters that he is writing to The Evening News, especially since he is writing about Germany. I have just returned from an extensive trip in that country, where I visited in about forty cities and spoke in over fifty churches. During my trip I did not enter a single hotel, but had the privilege to stay with the people and get in closer touch with them, than any tourist can. Being able to speak their language fluently I was able to inquire more thoroughly into conditions than would have been possible otherwise and I can well understand why Mr. Kirk is puzzled about things as he finds them. Your readers may be interested to hear some explanations of things he mentions in his letter published November 26, though no one can understand the why and the wherefore of the present chaos in that country.

The people that are frequenting hotels and sitting there drinking beer and enjoying the music are not the German people, they are mostly foreigners, many of whom talk German as fluently as a native, or they are the profiteers of whom they have as many there as we have had with us always. He does not like the principle that tourists must pay twice as much as the natives. That is as it should be. I have heard that there are summer prices and winter prices in Los Angeles. Everywhere in Europe in tourist-centers not have them and they do not home-folks. Americans earn a vast amount of money more in their daily labors than German people do, so they can well afford to pay more. Mr. Kirk, himself, says that the prices are still reasonable. Germany resents the buying of foreigners. They have come and have bought the best there was, with their money and Germans could not buy, and the more the foreigners bought the higher the prices went up, because the credit was gone and they could only buy with dollars or other foreign money. Where do they get them? The people do not have them and they do not buy clothing or anything else except food. There are a few at the top who can, the rest are foreigners. The merchants and all people handling large amounts, like charitable institutions, must carry a dollar-account in a German bank that has dealings with foreign countries and they can only pay with this. Business men and women have told me many times that every piece they sell means a loss to them and it means bankruptcy in the end. I saw dozens of stores closed for that reason. They must pay so much more for anything they buy now than they had to pay for their stock or what they got for it at the time. This is not turned over much for the above mentioned reasons.

Banks Take Large Profits

Banks are taking a large profit. Banks are the only buildings under construction and many of them are putting on additions. They are making money. They are owned by Jews almost entirely. There is not much love for the Jews in those countries of Central Europe now. It is true that one can not buy bargains now, in fact, nearly everything is higher than in our country, but it was not so, when I went to Germany. It is not because they are smooth traders, but because they have no credit and must pay more than we do here for their wares. I went from store to store in the large cities and found a very small stock of women's apparel. Art stores are filled, no one buys

ON THE WAY TO THANKSGIVING SERVICES—1623

Thanksgiving Had Origin Before Pilgrims Came to America, Records Reveal

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Possibly because of the Longfellow influence, which descended upon us in a highly impressionable time of life, the first thoughts conjured up in our minds at the mention of Thanksgiving nowadays have to do with Miles Standish, Priscilla, John Alden and the rest, whereupon we conclude that the institution was born then and there.

As a matter of fact "Thanksgiving" goes back many, many years before the Pilgrim fathers landed at Plymouth.

When the ceremony was first celebrated in this country it was a direct perpetuation of the English "harvest home," and in its chief characteristic and significance differed very little from that observance. The latter in turn is derived from a world cycle of "in-gathering" feasts, to which the Bible refers in several places. For example, Judges, IX, 27, presents the following:

Scriptural Custom

"And they went out into the fields and gathered their vineyards, and trode the grapes, and made merry and went into the House of their God and did eat and drink."

So far as the records show, the Pilgrims conducted no special religious services in conjunction with their first Thanksgiving. The regular morning devotions were discharged, and grace was said before meat.

It appears that they had been exceedingly short of rations just prior to the Thanksgiving feast. By dint of hard labor, performed by the very few of their number who had been able to resist the ravages of disease, and by conserving for planting corn that they actually needed for food, they were blessed with an ample harvest, and straightway invited the Indians to partake of their feast.

Indians Brought Deer

The Great Chief Massasoit and about 90 of his men responded to the invitation. It appears, however, that the Pilgrim larder was materially augmented by the Indians, who sent out a number of their most expert hunters, who brought back five deer.

The ensuing feast was not for a day, but for a week. Nor did this mean that their sufferings were over. Followed another period of privation, during which the strictest conservation was necessary in order that there might be plenty of seed to plant the fields the following season.

FORM GAS COMPANY

DENVER, Nov. 29.—A company incorporated for $1,000,000 for the purpose of piping gas from the huge well near Fort Collins, to Denver, Colorado Springs, Pueblo and other Colorado cities, has filed papers of incorporation with Secretary of State Milliken. The well is flowing at the rate of 80,000,000 cubic feet a day.

Rough Trip for Pilgrims On Good Ship Mayflower, Says Governor of Colony

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—William Bradford, governor of Plymouth colony, was thankful for everything except the trip on the Mayflower, if one may judge from his own account of the first American Thanksgiving day:

"Being thus arrived in a good harbor and brought safe to land," he wrote, they fell upon their knees & blessed ye God of Heaven, Who had brought them over ye vast & furious ocean and delivered them from all ye perils & miseries thereof, again to set their feete on ye firm and stable earth, their proper elemente. And no marvel if they were thus joyeful, seeing wise Seneca was so affected with sailing a few miles on ye coaste of his owne Italy; as he affirmed that he had rather remaine twentie years on his way by land than pass by sea to any place in a short time; so tedious & dreadful was ye same unto him.

Facing Hard Times

"But hear I cannot but stay and make a pause, and stand half amased at this poore peoples presente condition; and so I thinke will the reader too, when he well considers ye same. Being thus passed ye vast ocean, and a sea of troubles before in their preparation (as may be remembered by which wente before), they had now no friends to wellcome them, nor inns to entertaine or refresh their weatherbeaten bodys, no houses or much less townes to repaire too, to seek for succore. It is recorded in scripture as a mercie to ye apostle & his shipwraked company, yt the barbarians shewed them no smale kindnes in refreshing them, but thees savage barbarians, when they meet with them were readier to fill their sids full of arrows then otherwise. And for ye season it was Winter, and they that know we Winters of yt countrie know them to be sharp & violent, & subjecte to cruell & feirce stormes, deangerous to travill to known places, much more to serch an unknown coast. Besids, what could they see but a hidious & desolate wilderness, full of wild beasts & wild men? and what multitude ther might be of them they knew not. Nether could they, as it were, goe up to ye tope of Pisgah, to vew from this wildernes a more goodly countrie to feed their hops; for which way soever they moved their eyes (save upward to ye heavens) they could have little solace or content in respecte of any outward objects. For summer being done, all things stand upon them with a weather-beaten face, and ye whole countrie full of woods & thickets, represented a wild & savage view. If they looked behind them, ther was ye mighty ocean which they had passed, and was now as a maine barr & goulfe to separate them from all ye civil parts of ye world—

God's Grace Is Help

"What could now sustaine them but ye spirite of God & his grace? May not & ought not the children of these fathers rightly say: Our fathers were Englishmen which came over this great ocean, and were ready to perish in the wilderness; but they cried unto ye Lord, and he heard their voyce, and looked on their adversitie. Let them therefore praise ye Lord, because he is good, and his mercies endure for ever. Yea, let them which have been redeemed of ye Lord, show how he hath delivered them from ye hand of ye oppressour. When they wandered in ye deserte wildernes out of ye way, and found no citie to dwell in both ungrie & thirstie, their soule was overwhelmed in them. Let them confess before ye Lord his loving kindness, and his wonderful works before ye sons of men."

President's Proclamation Points Out Reasons for Thanksgiving In America

President Coolidge, in issuing his proclamation setting aside Thursday, November 29, as Thanksgiving Day, declares that the people of this country will realize their good fortune the more keenly if they will compare conditions here with those of any other community in the world. The proclamation follows:

"The American people, from their earliest days, have observed the wise custom of acknowledging each year the bounty with which divine Providence has favored them.

"In the beginning, this acknowledgment was a voluntary return of thanks by the community for the fruitfulness of the harvest. Though our mode of life has greatly changed, this custom has always survived. It has made Thanksgiving Day not only one of the oldest but one of the most characteristic observances of our country. On that day, in home and in church, in family and public gatherings, the whole Nation has for generations paid the tribute due from grateful hearts for blessings bestowed.

"To center our thoughts in this way upon the favors which we have been shown, has been altogether wise and desirable. It has given opportunity, justly to balance the good and the evil which we have experienced. In that, we have never failed to find reasons for being grateful to God for a generous preponderance of the good. Even in the least propitious times, a broad contemplation of our whole position has never failed to disclose overwhelming reasons for thankfulness. Thus, viewing our situation, we have found warrant for a more helpful and confident attitude toward the future.

"In the current year, we now approach the time which has been accepted by custom as mostly fitting for the calm survey of our estate and the return of thanks. We shall the more keenly realize our good fortune if we will, in deep sincerity, give to it due thought and more especially if we will compare it with that of another community in the world.

"The year has brought to our people two tragic experiences, which have deeply affected them. One was the death of our beloved President Harding, which has been mourned wherever there is a realization of the worth of high ideals, noble purpose and unselfish service, carried even to the end of supreme sacrifice. His loss recalled the Nation to a less captious and more charitable attitude. It sobered the whole thought of the country. A little later came the unparalleled disaster to the friendly people of Japan. This called forth from the people of the United States demonstrations of deep and humane feeling. It was wrought into the substance of good works. It created new evidence of our international friendship, which is a guarantee of world peace. It replenished the charitable impulse of the country.

"By experiences such as these, men and nations are tested and refined. We have been blessed with much of material prosperity, we shall be better able to appreciate it, if we remember the privations others have suffered; and we shall be the more worthy of it if we use it for their relief. We will do well, then, to render thanks for the good that has come to us and show by our actions that we have become stronger, wiser and truer by the chastening which has been imposed upon us. We will thus prepare ourselves for the part we must take in a world which forever needs the full measure of service. We have been a most favored people. We ought to be the most generous people. We have been the most blessed people. We ought to be the most thankful people.

"Wherefore, I, Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States, do hereby fix and designate Thursday, the 29th day of November, as Thanksgiving Day, and recommend its general observance through the land. It is urged that the people, gathering in their homes and their usual places of worship, give expression of their gratitude for the benefits and blessings that a gracious Providence has bestowed upon them and seek the guidance of Almighty God that they may deserve a continuance of His favor."

WORKERS STRIVE TO OBTAIN LEAD

Second Period of Campaign Sees Contestants in Strenuous Drive

By J. A. MALCOLM
Salesmanship Club Manager

The second period of The Glendale Evening News greater circulation campaign has started with renewed efforts on the part of the workers, and each is trying to outdo the other as they realize the importance of the second period.

The race has been going along in a pretty even way, but that cannot last, for someone is going to make a spurt and show a burst of speed that will put them over the top and in the lead of the entire campaign, where they will remain until the end.

The credit totals are climbing higher and higher every day, and by the end of the week it is predicted that some of the club members will be getting close to the million mark in credits. If you have the ambition to be a winner in this campaign, if you want to be more than just a winner of one of the smaller prizes, then it's up to you to make the most of every day that remains in this campaign. Make up your mind that you are going to do your best and go after the subscriptions with a greater determination than ever before. Show your friends that you are in the race to win and that you are not going to be contented to win a watch when there are so many other more valuable prizes.

Effort That Counts

It's personal effort that counts in this campaign, and those who rely upon what their friends promise to do for them will find at the last minute that they have been left hopelessly at the post and have not even gotten started.

The standing of the club members is being printed every other day now so that the club members may see how they stand. Of course, some of the club members have a good reserve that they are holding for the future, but most of the club members have polled all of their credits. This will give you some idea of how you stand at this time and you can figure accordingly.

TODAY—Hunting Wolves in Colorado, Wariest of All Wild Animals.

By MICHAEL F. DACEY
By International News Service

DENVER, Nov. 29.—The cleverness and cunning of the wolf was revealed to International News Service by Stanley P. Young, chief of the predatory animal control bureau of the United States Biological Survey, who was moved to reminiscence by the receipt at headquarters here of the skull of the famous Custer wolf, which was trailed for months before being finally captured. Custer wolf was the direct cause of the destruction of livestock to the value of $25,000, according to Government hunters.

The United States Government, through the predatory animal control bureau, maintains a corps of trained hunters in the Colorado Rockies to trail the outlaws of the range. These men, schooled in wolf lore, constantly combat the killers with rifle, trap and poison bait.

"A bad wolf can come to no good end," declared Young as he pointed to numerous greasy, yellow-tinted wolf skulls—trophies gathered by Government hunters

"Driven from the plains country when the buffalo herds disappeared," Young continued "the wolf has taken up his abode in the fastnesses of the Rockies. There he is hunted—hunted because he has made man his enemy.

"Raids upon livestock grazing peacefully in the forest solitudes, and upon deer and elk, have turned the forces of the livestock interests, represented by the Colorado Board of Stock Inspection Commissioners against the wolf also.

"Stock losses directly traceable to the wolf amount to thousands of dollars annually."

Young declared that not only does the wolf slay when he is hungry, but that he maims—usually fatally—when he is playful.

"In his playful moments," Young said, "which usually come after he has feasted upon the carcass of a fat beef, the wolf will 'harry' a calf, a cow, or a full-grown steer, until the animal is exhausted. Then, with a lust for blood, he springs, sinks his sharp fangs into that portion of the animal where the tail joins the back-bone, and another detailed calf, cow or steer appears on the range."

"Whether he deserves it or not," Young related, "the wolf is regarded as one of the cleverest predatory animals abroad in the Colorado Rockies. He is a keen observer, his scent is sharper than that of any other animal, and he is wary and cunning.

"It is on this account that Government hunters are compelled to match their wits against the wits of the wolf. Frequently the hunters lose, but ultimately the wolf falls a victim to man's well-laid plans."

Young said that hunting wolves was a matter of locating their runs.

A wolf-run is a trail through the mountains—an irregular circle marked here and there by scent-posts, over which the wolf travels almost with the exactness of clock-hands circling the face of a clock. To the left and right of this run the wolf hunts, kills and feasts.

On these runs the Government hunter lays his traps for the wolf—the trap-setting being a real scientific undertaking and one which demands the greatest care if the "man scent," which warns the wolf, is to be dispelled.

Eventually—on his periodical rounds of his hunting country, which often consumes the better part of a month—the wolf approaches the scent-posts, where heavy steel traps have been placed, steps upon a trap, and the steel jaws close over his paw.

Although caught, the wolf's battle to escape may be fought for days.

In addition to trapping, the Government hunters succeed in killing off many wolves by setting poison bait. The same care must be exercised with this method, according to Young, as the intuitive cunning of the animal often upsets the elaborate plans made to catch him with the poison bait.

ASKS POPE'S SANCTION TO WED

Aged Prince Picks Young Beauty for Bride

The Princess of Pless, the former Daisy Cornwallis-West.

ROME, Nov. 29.—Prince Hans Heinrich of Pless may be old—sixty-three years old.

But he has young ideas.

For, after thirty-two years of wedded life with the Princess Pless, formerly Daisy Cornwallis-West, he has presented a plea to the pope for dissolution of that marriage in order that he may be free to wed again. And the future Princess Pless, it is said, is the Countess Dietrichstein, twenty, blonde, beautiful and the toast of Vienna.

The prince, in his plea, says that he was "persuaded" to marry Miss Cornwallis-West thirty two years ago by her father. It wasn't so much what her father said at the time that influenced him, the prince hints, as it was what father held in his hand. It was a revolver—and the next size of the same weapon comes on wheels, he feels sure.

The prince says he hadn't been serious up to that time.

Hans was one of the richest men in Germany up to the time of the war. Then, fearing to lose his wealth, he become a citizen of Poland. Most of the mine properties he held in Upper Silesia were later awarded to Poland.

That the countess is going to be the real head of the House of Pless if the prince obtains his freedom and marries her is indicated in the report that it is at her request that he is obtaining a papal divorce. She and he are Catholics. The princess is Protestant.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— By Howard R. Garis —

UNCLE WIGGILY'S NUT CRACKER

There was a rattling, banging noise at the front door of the hollow stump bungalow one day. Uncle Wiggily and Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy were sitting in easy chairs, wondering whether or not it would snow before Thanksgiving.

"My goodness! What's that?" cried the muskrat lady housekeeper, as the rattling and banging noises sounded louder.

"Perhaps that's the snow," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Nonsense! Mr. Longears! Snow wouldn't make any such noise as that!" cried Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"Perhaps it is hail," said the bunny. "I shall take a look" bunny. "I shall take a look." since the noises came from there.

"Oh, suppose it should be the Fuzzy Fox?" cried the muskrat lady.

But just then she heard a giggle and a laugh.

"It is some of the animal boys or girls," called Uncle Wiggily. "I can't see them yet, but I can hear them."

Again came more rattle and banging noises. Nurse Jane, smiling now, and not afraid, hurried after the bunny gentleman. She stood beside him as he opened the door.

On the steps, frisking about, were Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the two squirrel boys, and the noises they had made, were caused by nuts they dropped.

"Hello, Uncle Wiggily and Nurse Jane!" chattered Billie. "We have brought you some chestnuts!"

"And some hickory nuts!" added Billie. And, as he spoke, he dropped some more of the hard nuts, which rattled and banged on the steps.

"That is very kind of you," said Nurse Jane. "Won't you come in?"

"Thank you, no," chattered Johnnie, as Billie helped Uncle Wiggily pick up the scattered nuts. "We must take some to Uncle Butter, the goat. He can crack them with his horns."

"Well, if you won't come in then I must bring out the chocolate cake," laughed Nurse Jane. "For I want you each to have a slice."

"And we want to have some!" said Billie. "If we had known you had chocolate cake, Nurse Jane, we would have come right in when you asked us."

"It's all right, I'll bring it out," she offered, and she was rather glad to do this, as the squirrel boys might drop crumbs on her clean floor.

Soon the chattering chaps had scampered away, eating their cake and taking some nuts to Uncle Butter, the goat.

"It was very kind of them to bring us some," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Yes, indeed," agreed Nurse Jane. "But as you are not a goat, Mr. Longears, and have no horns, how are you going to crack the hard hickory nuts?"

"I'm," murmured the bunny, "that is a question, isn't it? I can manage the chestnuts all right, as their shells are not so hard. But the hickory nuts—I shall have to get a nut cracker, I believe."

"I believe you, also," said Nurse Jane. "And if you will get a cracker to open the nuts, I'll get ready to make a hickory nut cake when you come back."

"Good!" cried the bunny, and away he hopped, over the fields and through the woods to buy a nut cracker at the store.

"Here is a very strong one," said Mr. Stubtail, the gentleman bear, who sometimes worked in the store. He gave the bunny a nut cracker. It had two handles and an open mouth, with jaws that closed on the nuts, breaking the shells. "You just put the nut in the open jaws," said Mr. Stubtail, "and when you press on the handles the jaws close tight."

"I know how to work it," said Uncle Wiggily. He was hopping back to his bungalow with the nut cracker, opening and closing it to practice, when, all of a sudden, out from behind a bush jumped the Skillery Scallery Alligator.

"I want to nibble your ears! I want to nibble your ears," cried the 'Gator, opening his mouth.

"You shall not nibble my ears!" bravely said the bunny.

"Yes, I shall!" bellowed the bad chap. "I shall knock you down with my strong tail and nibble your ears." He flapped his tail around—his double-jointed tail to knock down the bunny. But as soon as the end of the 'Gator's tail came within reach, Uncle Wiggily caught it in the jaws of the nut cracker. Pressing the handles together, the bunny pinched the tail of the 'Gator very hard in the nut cracker.

"Oh, wowchie, ow! What's this? Oh, my tail! My beautiful tail! Let go! You'll break a piece off!" howled the bad chap.

"Will you let my ears alone if I let go your tail?" asked the bunny.

"Yes! yes! I promise you!" howled the Alligator. Then Uncle

"Let go! You'll break a piece off!" howled the bad chap.

Wiggily opened the nut cracker so the 'Gator could pull out his tail. And away ran the bad chap, while Uncle Wiggily hopped home and cracked the nuts so Nurse Jane could make a cake.

Once more the bunny was out of trouble. And if the chocolate drop doesn't fall on the sidewalk and make its nose look flat like a pancake, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily boiling an egg.

Who's Who in the Day's News

LORD BEAVERBROOK

Lord Beaverbrook is considered one of the most powerful men in Great Britain today. He is the owner of the London Daily Press, which he has built from a weakling to a great organ with a circulation of nearly a million, and the Sunday Express, which he started four years ago and which is fast gaining ground on its older rivals.

These, with his recent purchases of controlling interests in the London Evening Standard and the Pall Mall Gazette, place him in the front rank of British newspaper owners. In fact, Lord Beaverbrook has command of publicity organizations as dominant as those of Lord Northcliffe in the height of his career.

Unlike Northcliffe, however, he is not primarily a newspaper man. Business is his first love, although his instant success in newspaper work attests his ability and versatility.

A Native of Canada

Lord Beaverbrook is the son of a poor Scotch Presbyterian minister of New Castle, New Brunswick, Canada, the late Rev. William Aitken, a close friend of Bonar Law, former premier of Britain. He laid the foundation of his great fortune in his native country by gaining control of certain industries in his neighborhood, reconstructing them and selling at a handsome profit. He made many millions in the cement business and was also successful in the moving picture business at a time when England was having a picture boom.

Lord Beaverbrook went to England thirteen or fourteen years ago. In 1910 he was elected Unionist member of parliament for Ashton-under-Lyne, and shortly after he was knighted. In the summer of 1916 Sir William Aitken became Lord Beaverbrook. He got his peerage for the part he played in bringing into being the coalition government. He it was who brought his fellow Canadian, Bonar Law, and Lloyd George together, forming the coalition.

Reveals Germany's Weakness

In the summer of 1921 Lord Beaverbrook went to Germany. At that time Germany apparently promised to be as strong financially as she was before the war. After a stay of ten days he wrote a series of articles pointing out that the country was headed for a financial crash. In less than six weeks after the appearance of his first article the German mark started its downward slide.

BOMBAY, Nov. 29.—The rigorous manner in which the recently passed prohibition laws are enforced in Afghanistan is typified by the punishment meted out at Kabul to a soldier who got intoxicated. He was sentenced to eighty lashes, fined $350 and paraded through the streets of the city as a warning to others.

Heart and Home Problems

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl sixteen years old, and would like to know if I am too young to have a boy call on me twice a week. My mother has no objections, but thought I should ask your consent.

I would like to give a boy a Christmas present and would like you to suggest a few articles.

DOLLY DIMPLES.

You are very young to have boy friends, but if your mother likes the boy who calls, I can see no harm in your having company. Sometimes a girl is kept away from boys so long that by the time she is considered old enough by her parents to have callers, she is no longer sought by young men.

It would be in better taste to send the boy a Christmas greeting. You might, however, give him a book.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl sixteen years of age. I am in love with a boy about two years my senior. I see him nearly every week. He seems to care a great deal for me, but sometimes he seems indifferent. How can I tell if he loves me?

GINGER.

Love is a very uncertain matter. There is really no way of knowing whether the boy merely enjoys your company, or is in love with you, unless he tells you the state of his affections. At your age, it would be much better to look for loyal friendships, rather than love affairs.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please advise me what you think of first cousins marrying. I am engaged to mine, and he wants me to marry him Christmas. I love him dearly and I know that he loves me more than anyone in the world. I am afraid to marry him, because I have heard that cousins should not marry. Is that true?

He already has our home built and everything fixed for us to begin housekeeping. He says that he will never be happy without me, and I know that I never will be without him. We are both old enough to know our minds. Would you do it if you were in my place? His father and my mother are only half sister and brother. Is that as bad as if we were first cousins?

C. L. S.

The fact that your mother and your fiance's father were only half brother and sister would certainly enter into the question, and make your marriage safer. I have never felt in a position to advise cousins whether or not they should marry, because there are many things to be considered. The only safe way is to get a good physician's advice. Sometimes there are family tendencies which would make it unsafe for cousins to marry, while in other cases there would be little if any danger. The fact that in some states cousins are allowed to marry, while in others, they are not, would show the difference of opinion regarding the safety.

Talk to a good physician, explaining truthfully what he feels he wants to know, and you will be able to judge whether or not marriage is advisable.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am sixteen years old and have never gone with a girl. There is to be a party at school soon, and I would like to take a certain classmate. I would also like to call at her home, but I feel a little embarrassed about doing so. Would you advise me to ask her to go to the party before I ask to call or afterward?

TOMMIE.

I would suggest that you call on the girl before inviting her to the dance. It will be a little better taste to meet her parents before you invite her to go somewhere with you.

HUNT BANDITS IN DARING ROBBERY

Holdups Chain Armed Guard to Motorcycle; Escape With $20,000 in Bonds

SEATTLE, Nov. 29.—Search is being made by a corps of detectives for the quartet of bandits who held up two Bank of California messengers and escaped with registered mail containing approximately $20,000 in negotiable securities.

The hold-up occurred in the busy downtown section shortly before 6 o'clock while the streets were crowded with home-goers. As the two messengers, Samuel Wright and Ferris Scharnick, were being driven to the sub-station postoffice at the King street depot, escorted by an armed police guard, a small automobile turned sharply in front of them and stopped, forcing the messengers' car to stop in the traffic jam.

The bandits leaped from their car, handcuffed R. R. Moulton, the police guard, to the motorcycle he was riding, and disappeared two minutes later with two sacks of registered mail.

PEAN DEBTS RD TO COLLECT

Funding Commission to Reveal Gloomy Status To Next Congress

By W. H. ATKINS
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Uncle Sam, as a creditor, has on his books about $7,000,000,000, money borrowed from the American people and lent to Europe, which the treasury designed as "uncollectable for an indefinite period." This substantially will be the report to congress next week by the American debt funding commission.

Preliminary to reporting to congress the status of obligations due the United States on account of war loans made to European countries, the American commission has just concluded a fresh survey of Europe's "ability to pay." The result of this is disturbing to the American government.

The attitude of France is regarded by higher officials as "disquieting." The American commission for the present has deferred resorting to a policy of prodding France to liquidate her debt which now totals approximately $4,000,000,000. The administration takes the view that bringing pressure upon France and other large debtors would be a possible expedient, but a doubtful one for all practical purposes, as the French government has neither gold nor dollars with which to settle. The best that France has given the American commission is a promise hinged upon what officials term purely visionary expectation of what France will force Germany to pay in war damages.

The American commission will make it clear that it is now only possible for this government to pursue a policy of hopefulness that out of the reparations muddle some more logical common ground may be reached by the disputants, and thereby set going revenue-producing channels now dormant.

When you ask a friend to endorse a Promissory Note, his refusal signs the death warrant of friendship.

Temporary relief may come from sighing—permanent relief from trying.

Leaders of Women's Clubs Issue Season's Greetings In Thanksgiving Message

Thanksgiving messages are voiced to Glendalians from the presidents of the four leading women's organizations in Glendale, the Tuesday Afternoon club, the College Women's club, the Business and Professional Women's club and the Thursday Afternoon club.

Organization, development and activities of these four clubs are closely bound up with the continued growth of Glendale and each of these club units is a vital force in community and civic affairs.

The Thanksgiving messages follow:

Tuesday Afternoon Club

By Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Pres.

I am first of all thankful that I and my family live in the wonderful city of Glendale. As president of the Tuesday Afternoon club, I am thankful for the blessings we have enjoyed in our clubhouse, for it has far surpassed all our expectations and hopes and is receiving recognition and compliments from all parts of the United States. I am thankful that we have a club home that fills so many needs of the community. I am thankful for the broad experience I have enjoyed as president and of the fine people I have met both socially and in a business way. I am also thankful for good health and many friends and at this Thanksgiving time I want to wish Glendale people prosperity and happiness.

College Women's Club

By Mrs. A. L. Ferguson, Pres.

The Glendale College Women's club has much to be thankful for, for this last year has witnessed the formation and growth of a club of college women, who as a club, already play an active part in Glendale community life.

We have this wonderful state of California to be thankful for as a fertile ground for such an organization. California, as the most prosperous state, and boasting of a one-third greater percentage of people with college educations than any other state in the union, such organization thrives more heartily here than elsewhere.

Then we have the rapidly growing city of Glendale to be thankful for, for in its increased population has grown a decided desire for such an organization.

We have the hearty support and interest of the club women to be thankful for, in making our club the success it has attained.

Business Women

By Dr. Jessie A. Russell, Pres.

The Business and Professional Women's club is grateful that its lot is cast where exists the spirit so evident in this city, that of enthusiasm, cooperation and civic pride.

This club is organized for the furtherance of the interests of women active in the business and professional life of Glendale and the members will always be found in the front ranks of those backing any movement to better the community.

At this Thanksgiving time the Business and Professional Women's club expresses sincere appreciation of the aid given by The Glendale Evening News in the promotion of club activities.

Thursday Afternoon Club

By Mrs. E. V. Bacon, President

Greetings to members and friends of the Thursday Afternoon club.

The past year has been a busy one, full of promise, with a large measure of fulfillment.

An increase in both membership and interest is apparent and very gratifying.

Through the kindness of Mrs. A. L. Bancroft the club has had a suitable place of meeting. By means of social affairs, bazaars and musicals the building fund is growing and the president hopes the club will be occupying its own home in the near future.

A broadening of the work of the club in philanthropic and practical lines indicates a growth in interest and a development into a larger organization.

FASHION'S NEW THOUGHT IN BLOUSES

Created on new lines of fabrics that are artistic achievements, the new blouses are hard to resist. The model to the left emphasizes its collegiate smartness by a motif embroidered in bright colors, and a new side-closing effect. The round neck is collarless, and the kimono sleeves have lines that are independent of cuffs or further decoration. With the blouse is worn a plaited skirt of the same material—wool crepe. Medium size requires 4 7-8 yards 40-inch material.

In accord with the newest Parisian models is the blouse to the right, carried out in rosewood crepe and worn with a skirt of the same fabric. The blouse is slashed at the center-front, underfaced and rolled low with the convertible collar. The sleeves may be worn long or short. Both plaits and drapery are featured in the side-closing skirt, making the costume appropriate for semi-formal wear. Both skirt and blouse may be used separately, but when worn together are in demand for afternoon functions. Medium size requires 4 3-4 yards 36-inch material.

First model: Blouse No. 1668. Sizes 34 to 46 inches bust. Motif No. 12820. Transfer, blue or yellow, 25 cents. Skirt No. 1608. Sizes 34 to 50 inches bust. Price 35 cents.

Second model: Blouse No. 1676. Sizes 34 to 48 inches bust. Price 30 cents. Skirt No. 1530. Sizes 24 to 34 inches waist. Price 30 cents. Monogram 579. Perforated design 1-2 to 2 inches high, 50 cents, and 10 cents extra for each additional inch.

BEAUTY CHATS

by EDNA KENT FORBES

WHITE HANDS IN WINTER

No one need suffer from chapped hands in the winter time. It is too easy to protect them. Before going out the hands can be rubbed with vanishing cream, or with the honey-almond lotion, which dries into the skin giving a smooth, soft surface. Thick gloves which protect the hands are no longer unfashionable; in fact it is quite the thing to wear rough, wooly gloves with a tailored suit. Plain cape skin gloves can be had with wool linings and gauntlets to shield the wrists, and if, in spite of these precautions the hands grow red and dry, cosmetic gloves worn at night will cure the trouble at once.

The hands should first be washed with warm water and a mild soap, then held for a minute in clear, fairly hot water, dried quickly and before the skin has had time to cool, smeared thickly with cold cream, warm cocoa butter, olive or almond oil. Whatever emolient is used should be rubbed in thoroughly, and a generous amount left on the surface of the skin. Then loose, old, white cotton gloves should be drawn on and kept on all night. Experience has shown me that these are better than leather gloves. After using a few times the leather gloves become impossibly mussy, whereas the cotton ones can be easily washed through soaking in hot water and soap flakes.

Hands which are much inclined to redness are often benefited by this skin food:

Cocoa Butter	1 ounce
Almond Oil	1½ ounces
Oxide of Zinc	1 dram
Powdered Borax	1 dram
Oil of Geranium	5 drops

The cocoa butter is melted into the oils, then the zinc oxide and borax added and all stirred until it is cool.

Peggy A.—With your Irish type and its rich auburn hair, the freckles must be quite natural. I am sure that your skin is perfect; nevertheless, if you feel that you must get rid of the freckles, try cucumber juice.

Lillie W.—The oil you mention is a concentrated perfume. It is sometimes used to scent cosmetic preparations which would account for your impression that it was used on the skin in place of a cream.

Lenor S.—I will be glad to mail you all this information about caring for the lashes and brows if send me a stamped self-addressed envelope repeating your request.

Anxious T.—An olive skin with dark hair and eyes, is so distinctive that there should be no need to bleach it. Bobbed hair continues in style.

Tomorrow—Treating a Corn

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes, in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

LIFE IN GERMAN CITIES REVEALED

things like that but sells them to get money for food.

Mr. Kirk asks where do they get the dollars or gold-marks to buy with?

They, the German people, do not buy anything but food now because they can not pay for anything else. He evidently does not yet know that there are not "poorer classes," as we count them here. The classes that we call the better, are the poorest there now, because they can not get a day-laborer's job, as a rule, and they have no income to speak of. Professionals are not earning enough to buy three meals a day and millions live on one of a very poor sort. So many people have gone insane that all the institutions are crowded and hundreds of thousands who have lost their minds can not be taken care of.

Folks Stay at Home

You do not see anything of these conditions in the hotels and in the streets because people have no errands in the streets when they can not buy. I was marveling continually that I could cross the streets without fear of autos, since there were so few of them. Horses you rarely see. The few things that have to be transferred are pushed on handcarts. When Mr. Kirk has been there a little longer, he will find these things to be true, though it is not easy for a foreigner to get on the inside of things. The German people are not given to talk much about what touches them deepest, to outsiders.

The wages are adjusted weekly, or semi-weekly, wage-earners are paid three times a week and wages go up as "the dollar goes up," as they call it. But never in proportion to the cost of food. Millions of people are actually starving and freezing as there is very little fuel in Germany since the occupation of the Ruhr. Tuberculosis is rampant among the children and there will be untold suffering this winter. I believe I have answered some of the questions in this letter and hope they will be giving the information that is so sorely needed.

Very sincerely yours,
A A. M. ACHARD.

Cigarettes Bane to Babies' Care, Charge

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 29.—"Women have as much right to smoke as men, but a baby has a small chance to grow to greatness in the arms of a shallow, artificial, cigarette-smoking mother," declared Rev. Dr. Daniel F. Rittenhouse, pastor of the First Baptist church here, sermonizing on "Home Life."

"It is a sad commentary on modern womanhood to read that, in fashionable women's clubhouses, the handsomest room in the house is the smoking room," continued Dr. Rittenhouse.

"Modern mothers often face their tasks with burdensome displeasure, instead of joy and gladness. All things being equal, a baby's mother is the best nurse. Every babe deserves a mother who is glad and happy to mother her own child," Rev. Dr. Rittenhouse asserted, urging good home surroundings and "parents of great faith in God."

Thanksgiving

A day for reflection, a day for meditation about ourselves, our community, our nation.

—This day finds us a people, happily nearer the goal of stability than we have been for several years.

We feel that our country is on the threshold of a period of great prosperity. Our city is sure to share in it and our organization stands ready to meet the responsibilities the approaching era promises.

We are an optimistic people. So mighty is our country, so vast its resources, so huge its wealth, that we have countless reasons to be thankful.

It is fitting that we offer this day thanks for blessings received and those to follow.

HISTORY OF GRID STRUGGLE TOLD

Pomona and Occidental Wage Friendly Warfare Past 23 Years

An interesting survey of the annual grid battles between the two conference rivals, Pomona and Occidental, brings to light for the first time in many years the history of the yearly combats since their first scrimmage in 1900. All goes to show that Pomona has won almost twice as many games as the Tigers, but she has not rolled up twice as many markers as has Oxy. The largest score in any of the encounters came in 1912 when the masterly team of Occidental piled up a 53-to-13 victory over their friendly enemies. Each school is credited with a 52-to-0 shut-out, Oxy taking the small end in 1903 and Pomona in 1915, when the Tigers were conquerors of four states, including a victory over the University of California. The Tigers were the last eleven in this state to defeat the Golden Bears.

Occidental has won seven games, while Pomona walked away with sixteen struggles and one tie. For seven years, or since 1916, the Oxy machine has not won a football game from the Sagehens. No matter how hard they have tried, fate seems to prohibit it. At the opening of the present season the Eagle Rock eleven were heavy favorites for the title. They possessed a wonderful array of players, but fate stepped in and one by one they were permanently injured, greatly weakening Pipal's hopes of copping high honors. In no game during the entire season has Coach "Timberwolf" Pipal been able to start his first string men. Someone was always minus. It was first Shoaf, then Garey, Spangler, Argue, Priaulx, Ridderhoff, Westgate.

Hope For Next Year

The Tigers hope to break the Sagehens' winning streak next year. The following are the scores of the respective institutions in past football tangles:

Glendale High Eleven Plays Santa Monica

The semi-finals for the Southern California Interscholastic football championship will be played on Paterson Field, Occidental College, next Saturday afternoon, December 1, at 2:15, when the elevens representing Glendale High and Santa Monica High clash. Both teams won their league titles and have already stepped up a notch in the state play-off.

[redacted]eresting game is this [redacted]wo teams are very [redacted] and seem to be in [redacted] for their mix-up. [redacted]rprised the south with her speedy, tricky squad and has succeeded in running up several good sized scores. Santa Monica has another exceptionally fine collection of players. They are counted upon to give Glendale a real battle.

SPORTS VARY IN FAVORED REGION

Many Kinds of Recreation in Southland Offer Cause For Rejoicing

The enumeration of the many blessings, which the people of Glendale have cause to be thankful for, on this day of the year especially designated for that purpose, would be incomplete if notice was not taken of sport, in its numerous branches, which is available in this wonderful climate, while so many sections of our country are snow-bound, rendering all manner of out-door recreation out of the question.

Baseball, football, golf, tennis, and a host of others, all requiring the great out-doors for their setting, are at our fingers' ends, while in the east all paraphernalia has been stowed away, not to be unearthed again until the season rolls around next year.

Tournament of Roses

Where else in the United States do they stage a classic comparing with the Tournament of Roses game on New Year's day at Pasadena, right at our side door, Glendale is being offered every week baseball of a quality that compares favorably with the article offered by any Class AA league in the summer. Consider the number of golf courses within an hour's drive of your home. No wonder that California tennis stars have startled the world by their performances when they have such weather as this at Thanksgiving to enable them to keep in condition.

Then there are the polo fields, the race tracks, the automobile speedways, in fact, anything anyone could desire in the line of recreation, available to Glendale residents the year around. To live in Glendale is truly to make the wish the mother of the act. Any day of the year the diamond, the gridiron, the links and the court draw their quotas of devotees, building up their strength and preserving their vitality in their preferred out-door exercise.

Reasons for Rejoicing

So let us then on this Thanksgiving day include in our sentiments a thought for the great outdoors and the opportunities offered our boys and girls for the development of their bodies and the spirit of good, clean sportsmanship.

Let us be thankful that we have elected to live in a country where we may follow these pursuits twelve months in the year, where links are as crowded in January as in July, where the ball park is as noisy in February as in August, and where on the first day of the year, under a benignantly smiling sun, we may witness the struggle between the east and the west in a spirit of friendly rivalry, or take on our neighbor for a few sets of tennis on a court built between banks of blooming shrubs and flowers.

These privileges are certainly not the least of our blessings for which we have cause to be thankful.

CASABA TOSSERS ARE WARMING UP

Coach Nichols Puts Players Through Preliminary for Oxy Schedule

Coach "Timberwolf" Pipal, head of the physical education department for men at Occidental College, announces that Sid Nichols has been appointed basketball coach for the coming season. Coach Nichols was assistant line coach of the varsity football team at Oxy, working with Coach Rundquist. Nichols is one of the famous Illinois State tackles of recent years. He played on the Illinois team when Rundquist had a berth on the same eleven.

Coach Nichols has had much experience playing basketball in the east. Sid can coach a winning team and has plenty of winning material to work with.

Captain Harold Wagnor is leading his teammates over the gym floor twice a week in preliminary practice. Official basketball practice will commence immediately after the Thanksgiving recess. Already many expert casaba shooters are busy warming up. Much competition will be afforded the candidates as several men are out for every position.

Although the varsity has lost five lettermen, there are still four fighting men back. Harold Wagnor, Fred Bennitts, Larry Johnson and Clarence Ebers are the returning vets. Many subs are showing up in good style. George Stoller, Bob Sacket, Fordham, Hazeltine, Chandler, Cherrie, McInnis, Lindley Link, Davis and others are going strong.

Two of the freshmen prospects are Solly Mishkin and Neil Archer, star basketball players from Pasadena High; Hammersly, Deaver and Condie, from Puente; McFadden, from Santa Ana, and Gregory, from Fullerton.

Local Laws Are Aid To Dry Enforcement

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 29.—Thirty-five of the fifty-eight counties in California, have county ordinances to enforce the Volstead Act and eighty-five municipalities have taken similar steps, according to Assistant Prohibition Director Quincy J. Boone, who is gathering statistics to show what local help is being given the Federal Government in enforcing the dry law.

A majority of the ordinances are patterned after the Wright state dry measure, which was endorsed by the voters at the November election.

Best of Speeders Will Flash Around Beverly Hills Today in 250-Mile Championship Event; Many Laps Will Be Made at Rate of 120 Miles Per Hour, It Is Predicted

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—Today, predictions have it, records are bound to fall by the wayside in the 250-mile national championship automobile race to be held on the Beverly Hills mile and a quarter speedway.

Competition of the stiffest sort is in store for the spectators who throng the great speed bowl to watch eighteen drivers, the cream of speedom in America, battle for Turkey Day honors. Practices have shown the automobiles evenly matched—and experienced racegoers know well what this means.

Never in the history of the sport have so many fast racing cars been brought together on the same track. All of the cars are capable of consistently being driven faster than 115 miles an hour—and the drivers are fully determined to proceed with such a plan. They are, with two or three exceptions, residents of Los Angeles, and they say what could be a more appropriate way to close the season than with a victory in the old "home town."

Ready for Flag

Moreover, the rivalry between these sons of mercury is keen. These men who have followed the perilous calling of the Speed Goddess are determined to annex premier honors Thanksgiving Day. In practice they have been loath to allow an opponent to pass, whereupon many spectacular brushes resulted. However, the pilots who were kept back will make matters merry when Starter Fred J. Wagner drops his red flag that will send the knights of the "roaring road" off on their 250-mile battle for fame and glory.

Every one of the drivers has declared many laps will be turned at speeds in excess of 120 miles an hour. Of the automobiles entered more than half are capable of keeping up this clip, while the remainder are close enough behind this to make it hard for the leaders.

The tension at the track is noticeable. While the racers are all friendly, yet everybody regards everyone else as a rival for the checkered flag, and a rival must be treated accordingly. Yet in spite of this, several times one man has stopped work on his own car just to help another out. Those are the kind of sportsmen who play at this perilous game of speed—opponents on the track but friends as soon as the cars are in the pits.

Durant Team

The Durant Special team will produce another champion this year, that is certain. Cliff Durant has gathered together a team of the leading drivers in the sport, stars who are all capable of winning.

Jimmy Murphy and Eddie Hearne—are the only competitors for the 1923 national championship. Both are tooling Durant Specials, as are Harry Hartz and Cliff Durant himself. Jerry Wonderlich is another Durant Special driver, though he owns his mount. However, he ships with the Durant outfit and works with them.

Durant himself has one of the fastest automobiles in the going. His new mount is a sensation in design, appearance and speed. It is freely predicted that the young millionaire sportsman, motor car builder and president of the Los Angeles Speedway Association, will be a strong competitor for premier honors.

In practice his times, while not so sensational as those of some of the others, have been such they mark him as "dangerous."

Jimmy Murphy in order to be crowned champion for the second successive year must win at Beverly Hills today, while Eddie Hearne has only to finish third. Should Murphy come second, Hearne is the champion even though he does not even finish.

A slim chance it is for the popular James Anthony, yet he fairly thrives on an up-hill battle. Unless some unforseen trouble comes up the assembled thousands will see what a great pilot he is.

Always Dangerous

Eddie Hearne, too, is a master when it comes to tooling a racing car. He may not be as showy as Murphy, yet when the last lap comes up he is usually found well up in the field.

Ralph DePalma is another who must be considered, racewise spectators have it. DePalma's new car is one of the fastest on the track and he handles it like the master he is. People are looking for him to step into the lead some time during the event and many of them are hoping he will retain it until the 200th lap is completed.

The H. C. S. Special team composed of Tommy Milton and Earl O. Cooper, is also to be taken into consideration. With the exception of Harry Hartz, these pilots have made faster time than any of the other drivers.

All year since Indianapolis the men behind the wheels of the white space annihilators have fought their way into the lead and held it until the race was well over, when some minor trouble forced them out of the running. They declare they have been able to overcome these difficulties. If they have—watch out! That is the way the experts put it, at any rate.

One of the prime points of interest in this noted classic, from the standpoint of the automobile owner or the keen follower of the speed sport, is the fact that this is the first time the "baby" racers—little cars of 122 cubic inches piston displacement—have ever been in action on the Los Angeles tureen.

These cars, introduced to motordom this last year, and never before raced in California except at Fresno, are the much-talked-of one-man cars. The mechanicians have been eliminated, the cars are narrower and lighter and with a much smaller motor, are still faster than the larger wagons seen here in past years.

Eighteen drivers, including two foreigners, comprise the personnel of the pilots who will face Starter Fred J. Wagner's red flag at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Gates for the big race open at 10 o'clock this morning, and shortly after that time, while the drivers are roaring around the tureen in the warming up process, the immense crowd will begin to file in. The veteran followers of races will go earlier, knowing from experience, that even at noon crowds get thick.

A. M. Young, secretary-manager of the Speedway, however, announces traffic will be made easier this year because the outer gates will be open wide. Instead of general admission tickets being sold here, the pasteboards will be sold only at the entrances to tunnels and grandstands, both being inside the fence.

Newest Browning machine gun will fire 500 bullets weighing a quarter of a pound a minute.

PENN READY FOR CORNELL TUSSLE

Turkey Day Clash of Bitter Rivals Hard to Dope Out, Says Expert

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—One of the succulent holiday dishes for the eastern palate will be served hot off the gridiron at Franklin Field this afternoon, the occasion being the annual clash between Pennsylvania and Cornell, rivals by environment, tradition and preference. The game will mark the end of the 1923 season for both teams, with Cornell striving to preserve inviolate its unbeaten record and Pennsylvania out to redeem a rather "spotty" season, numbering defeats by Maryland, Lafayette and Penn State.

As matters stand, the Big Red outfit looks to be two to one a better team than Pennsylvania, and the odds have conformed accordingly. Past performances, however, have ever proved a fallacy in dealing with the Penn-Cornell series, seemingly inferior Red and Blue elevens often arising to this holiday occasion and playing Cornell right off its bewildered feet. Only between the seasons of 1913 to 1915 and from 1921 to the present has Cornell shown to advantage.

Unbeaten Team

The present ensemble from Cayuga's classic shores is rated as one of the best in the country. It has not been beaten since Thanksgiving Day three years ago, when it collapsed before Pennsylvania and finished a bad second. This is a remarkable record in these modern days of football upsets; yet there is no denying the fact that Cornell schedules might be more strenuous. Until the present year most of its opponents were distinctly second rate, but recent achievements have been more commendable. Included among Cornell's victims this season are Dartmouth, which beat Harvard, and Colgate, which took a rolling fall out of Syracuse, one of the east's leading teams until the moment in question.

Both Dartmouth and Colgate were all but overwhelmed by the power of the Cornell attack, built around the off-tackle runs of Pfann and Cassidy. Pfann is rated as one of the greatest backs of the last ten years, and Pennsylvania will stop 50 per cent of the Red offensive if it can prevent this young man from getting away. This is asking Penn to do what Colgate, Dartmouth, Columbia and other teams have failed to accomplish. Pfann has not been stopped this year.

"In-and-Outer"

Penn has been the prize in-and-outer of the season, losing to Maryland, barely pulling out a victory over Swartmore, then turning around and beating Columbia and Centre College in a romp. This was followed by a 6 to 0 decision over Pittsburgh, upon which the Red and Blue lost to Lafayette, which had previously been beaten by Pitt. In its last game Penn proved to be twenty-one points worse than Penn State, which lost to Syracuse, a team beaten by Colgate, the loser to Cornell.

This would seem to make Pennsylvania about fifty points removed from Cornell at its best. But, as previously remarked, the past performance was ever a snare and a delusion so far as the Penn-Cornell series is concerned.

SHAKE-UP OCCURS ON LOCAL TEAM

Captain Mike Donlin Will Play Outfield; New Short To Get Tryout

A wholesale shifting of positions has taken place on the Glendale White Sox team following the defeat handed them by Shell Oil, and fans attending the game this afternoon will not recognize it as the same crowd of ball tossers that wore the pale hose last Sunday. Several new men have been given a try-out this week and may appear in the lineup today against the Palms-Culver City aggregation.

Captain Mike Donlin has grasped himself firmly by the seat of the trousers and hoisted himself to the outfield, where he cavorted with great success for the Giants, bringing Babe Herman in to play first base. Doc Crandall and Doran trade places, Doc taking third and Doran second. Frank Kerwin is bringing out a new shortstop from Los Angeles to have a try-out this afternoon, and if he can deliver the goods, Bedell will not grace the infield again. Manusch and Perry O'Brien will have their old places in left and center fields, respectively.

Improve Grounds

The pitching assignment will be given to either Collard or Arnold Crandall, depending on how they warm up before the game. Mickey O'Brien will do the receiving.

The grounds are now in much better shape for the infielders than they were last Sunday. The diamond has been rolled, removing the humps between the layers of sod. The work of installing the shower bath and completing the club house is practically finished.

Palms-Culver City has strengthened their lineup since the first game of the schedule when they played the locals to a 7-7 tie, and are prepared to give the White Sox a battle. Denison will probably be on the mound for the visitors.

FOOTBALL SQUAD READY FOR GAME

Locals Prepare to Take on Santa Monica Team Next Saturday

Instead of partaking of the time-honored menu of turkey and football for Thanksgiving day, Glendale will have to wait for the latter portion until Saturday afternoon, when Coach Hayhurst's squad, thus far undefeated this season, will tackle the Santa Monica eleven, champions of the Bay league, in the semi-finals for the southern California championship at Patterson Field, Occidental college.

As this will be the only football dish served to the people of this section of the country on this day, a crowd of 10,000 is expected to be on hand for the fray. Santa Monica rooters are coming en masse, according to word received yesterday, and Glendale will have a larger rooter's section than was very much in evidence last Saturday at Ontario.

Light scrimmage, brushing up on new plays, and signal drill is the order of the week on Moyse field. Only two of the regulars, Captain West and Lavelle, star end, were injured in last week's game, and each will be able to get back in the game with the Saints, although it is doubtful if West will start. He played a while against San Berdoo and the old injury to his thigh muscles bothered him some, so he was taken out. Lavelle was thrown hard on his hip, but was out yesterday afternoon.

Coach Hayhurst is making no prediction as to the score, or even that Glendale will win, but according to the "dope," Santa Monica should be no harder nut to crack than was San Bernardino. The Dynamiters have met and defeated teams of such apparently overwhelming weight this year that this item is hardly taken into consideration any more. Almost without exception they have been called upon to face heavier men both in the line and in the backfield. Especially is this true of the game with Covina and San Bernardino, which have been the most important ones on the local schedule.

The same team that took the field against San Bernardino will start next Saturday, with a full team in reserve in case of injury. The game will be called at 2:15 o'clock sharp.

Should the Red and Black colors be triumphant when the final whistle blows, then the cry will be "On to Long Beach." The coast school is playing Sweetwater next Saturday, and even the most optimistic of Sweetwater fans hardly concede their team a chance against the Beachers, so it looks as if the prep football classic of the south will be staged by Glendale and Long Beach at a place yet to be decided upon, December 8.

The one obstacle in the way is Santa Monica, and Coach Hayhurst's men are entering the game next Saturday with a determination to remove that obstacle from their path. While it is a little early to be making predictions, Long Beach will have to play super-football to beat the Red and Black machine, whose goal line has only been crossed once this season.

To see the Dynamiters in action with the championship of southern California at stake will be a treat for Glendale, and an event which the school authorities have long looked forward to with keen desire.

MINE 'PRISONER' IS PROVEN MYTH

Tale of Man Left Bound In Lonely Tunnel by Foe Turns Out Fake

SAN ANDREAS, Cal., Nov. 29.—Authorities gave credit to James Kennard in having as great an imagination as Bret Harte, famous chronicler of gold rush days in the "mother lode" country.

In great detail Kennard confessed to Sheriff Joseph Swinge that he had handcuffed and bound Phillip Oleson, also known as "Sonora Red" and abandoned him in a worked-out mining tunnel to die ten days ago. Kennard's apparent remorse was so great that he attempted suicide.

Sheriff Swinge sent out posses who searched hundreds of mine tunnels which dot the Calaveras county hillsides. Kennard accompanied them as a guide, but failed to remember in which tunnel he had left his alleged victim.

Yesterday Oleson, alive and well, appeared in Jackson. He denied he had ever been imprisoned by Kennard and expressed surprise that search was being made for him.

Sheriff Swinge expressed belief that Kennard had told the story in the hope that he would be released to search for the tunnel and would make his escape. He is held on a bad check charge.

By letting the water flow all night Kohlenberg has been successful in drowning Jack Frost.

Oxy Tribunal Raises Ban on Giddy Frosh

The men of the freshmen class at Occidental are now compelled by the Student Tribunal, which is composed of five upper class men, representatives of the student body, to continue wearing their frosh caps until the first day of the second semester. Last week when the tribunal met they decided that, if the peagreeners succeeded in defeating the Pomona frosh football team in their annual grid battle staged last Saturday, the yearlings could burn their black, dinky dome pieces Monday afternoon. The game ended in a scoreless tie, neither team having the punch to put the ball over.

However, most of the rules of the proclamation have been taken off and now the bashful frosh may flirt with the co-eds, wear conspicuous clothing, refrain from using one pedestal in going between the two buildings, and other laws and traditions used to tame the unsophisticated newcomers.

The circular flare is introduced in several bolivia coats for formal wear.

EAGLE ROCK

CUSTOMS OF OLD IN FORCE TODAY

Change of Scenery Fails to Alter Holiday Spirit Of Thanksgiving

Where are the mince pie, plum pudding and apple duff of the Thanksgiving of yesteryear, Where are the mittens, tippets, ice skates and toboggans of our Pilgrim forefathers?

Have these warm, friendly valleys of Southern California banished, not only the cold of the eastern winters, but their picturesqueness as well?

Mrs. A. G. Reily, president of the Women's Twentieth Century club, decries the idea. "In a hundred, yes, a thousand Eagle Rock homes today," she says, "Thanksgiving will be observed much as it was a hundred years ago, by the shores of the stormy Atlantic.

"Naturally, time makes changes. We have the automobile today, the movie, football, and a dozen other distracting interests. But for those of us who in our hearts really wish to observe Thanksgiving in the old way, the stage is set today no less than a hundred years ago—and behind a thousand windows the drama is working out, in its various forms, according to the particular sense of thankfulness and reverence in each heart."

Winter Athletic Carnival

Occidental college has decided to stage a Winter Athletic carnival and has set the date as December 8. The carnival will be composed chiefly of relays, short hurdle events, jumps and sprints, according to Joe A. Pipal, coach.

"We believe there is a great need in Southern California for a track meet staged early enough in the season so that the men will have something to work for during the fall months that will condition them gradually for their spring contests," says Coach Pipal.

"Our idea here at Occidental, in inaugurating this winter carnival, is to have an event that will take the place of fall training and winter track contests held generally throughout the east and middle west. We appreciate that by staging a contest somewhere near the middle of December we are in danger of running into rainy or chilly weather, but our chances for suitable weather for track here in Southern California are much better in the middle part of December than they are in the east or middle west in the middle of April, when their track season is in full blast.

"In talking this proposition over with the college and high school coaches and other sportsmen, we have found universal agreement that here is an event that would fill a long felt need. The program of events is such as to bring out every type of track and field aspirants. The novice events we believe will prove to be of value to a great many coaches who are anxious to develop new material, especially among high school students.

Oxy Was Pioneer

"Occidental college started the now famous A. A. U. relay championships at a time when it was felt there was need of such an event for the best interests of track athletics, and we feel that we are going to render an even greater service to athletics through this event, toward which the coaches will have a chance annually to point their hopefuls.

"Gold medals will be offered to winners in all events and suitable awards given also for second and third places.

"There has been a great deal of criticism in Southern California directed against having strenuous competition for our track men too early in the season, before the men have had opportunity to get in condition. A relay carnival staged in the middle of December, for which the men have had all the fall for gradual preparation, should, I believe, largely overcome the above mentioned objections and difficulties.

"With almost a month's rest intervening between this event and the opening of spring training, there will be a sufficient let-up to whet the athletic appetite both physically and psychologically for the more strenuous spring training. Thus, from every angle, I am convinced this event will serve both colleges and high schools in a most advantageous manner.

"Incidentally," concludes Coach Pipal, "it will afford some mighty good publicity to Southern California to be able to announce an outdoor winter athletic carnival."

Stock Truckee River Land With Pheasant

RENO, Nev., Nov. 29.—Washoe county commissioners have made arrangements to stock the country bordering the Truckee river between Vista and Wadsworth with Hungarian and Chinese pheasants. Two dozen of the former variety have been ordered from the state game department of Minnesota.

The Hungarian pheasant is only about twice the size of a bob-white quail, and is much smaller than the Chinese pheasant. It has been successfully introduced in the states of Washington and Minnesota. Its meat is of excellent quality. Chinese pheasants already are to be found in Churchill and Storey counties.

It is planned to declare a closed season on the birds for five years, in order that they may increase in numbers.

Turkey And All Th' Fixin's Christmas Shopping Season Bluebook For Bootleggers Comment By Other Papers

By Gil A. Cowan

Turkey day! What ho! The wishbone and the drumstick are yours for the asking, but probably the back and the neck will be your share, you who read this column.

Thanksgiving is upon us, or we are in the midst of it, which? It makes no difference. The mashed potatoes and gravy and the cranberry sauce will appease any desire to think.

For it is the Great Gorge we are now going through, as the conductor of a transcontinental train might say.

It is the feast of the year. The Big Appetite and like synonyms made popular by George Ade.

And if George would only come to our aid in describing Thanksgiving!

It is such a grand and glorious feeling—

Until tomorrow!

Tomorrow officially opens the season of Christmas shopping. We have had a preview of the goods. In fact, some of the early birds, wise old owls that they are, have already made the Glendale stores their mecca for Christmas goods.

The selections are at their best. The clerks have the time now to serve you. And the eventful Christmas day is but little more than three weeks away. You should begin shopping tomorrow.

And as soon as you have listed those whom you wish to remember, do a little planning for the benefit of the postoffice department. Mail those presents which go the farthest distance FIRST. In fact, mail everything going east of the Rocky mountains within the next week or ten days. Give the postoffice two or three weeks in which to handle the local business!

If you would only stop and consider, it is the public's own fault that Christmas mail is delayed. For they toss a burden on the mail man which is appalling, to say the least.

A little sticker was plastered on the windshield of the writer's car which read, "Remember the Mail Man. Mail Early for Christmas."

It is a mighty good thing for all of us to remind each other. And then practice what we preach.

Los Angeles is looked upon by the world now as one of its centers for news, principally because of its noted people. More and more are coming. And the notoriety is infectious.

All you have to do is "tell 'em you're from Los Angeles," said a friend of mine, and you are forthwith recognized. For what, we wonder?

We note in a current magazine that Henry Ford is getting all there is out of coal smoke! Why doesn't he turn his attention to making a Ford that gets all there is out of gasoline without leaving a trail of gas?

Customers of bootleggers have more to fear than Izzy Einstein, demon rum sleuth. Bootleggers are now compiling blue books of customers. And dry agents confiscating lists are looking into cellars. It is one round of joy.

We arise to inquire what there is in the atmosphere of Glendale that is conducive to paragraphers. Glendale vicinity boasts a half dozen of the best employed in Los Angeles. The writer of this column prefers to "borrow," however. Here are the results of scissors and paste:

A professor who has been studying the fossil remains of Pithecanthropus erectus in Europe has almost decided, from measurements of the left thigh bone, that the "first man" may have been a woman. The modern woman will probably not care to press her claim. She will be inclined, rather, to concede that if he's a fossil, he's a man.—Stockton Independent.

The United States weather bureau is now busy counting dust particles in the air, because visibility depends upon the amount of dust in suspension. BURBANK

TURKEYS ADD TO BURBANK'S FAME

Various Kinds of Products Add to Thanksgiving Dinner Pleasures

When Burbank sits down to the family dinner table today, piled high with Thanksgiving fare, there will be the added satisfaction of knowing that a goodly number of the turkeys served will be a local product, home raised, home dressed.

The city will also have the satisfaction of knowing that in many neighboring communities the festive bird adorning the table is a Burbank product.

Calling attention to this fact, Mayor J. C. Crawford urges those home folks who are partaking of home-grown turkeys to eat the same with a special feeling of thankfulness for this city which is growing so fast and being advertised so widely by its products.

"For is it not also true," he adds, "that those same turkeys were delivered by Moreland trucks, a Burbank product; that they were eaten on Empire china, a Burbank product; that Jergen's soap, still another Burbank product, later performed its duties in kitchen and bathroom; and that many other Burbank products contributed to the Thanksgiving meal?"

Number Your Houses!

Burbank wants its houses numbered. It is not efficient to cause letter carriers, friends and visitors to guess where a certain number is. Therefore, the public service department calls attention to the local ordinance which prescribes that houses shall be properly numbered within five days after receiving said number from the authorities.

The ordinance states clearly that the number shall be at least two inches in height and of corresponding width. A penalty of $25 is attached for failure in this regard, together with a fine of twenty-five days' imprisonment. And the penalty applies to "those who violate, neglect or refuse to comply with the ordinance."

Those who have to put up with the annoyance of having to guess at the numbers on houses feel that unless something is done to remedy the matter they will have to have the support of a strict enforcement of this ordinance.

Dog Goes 1,500 Miles Home

Those who read this pathetic little story of a dog's faithfulness and love may perhaps treat dumb animals a little kinder. Billie was just an ordinary collie dog, belonging to Mr. and Mrs. J. Powell of Princeton, Ind. The Powells came to California by automobile, bringing Billie with them.

While camping out on the Arizona desert, Billie disappeared one night and they had to go on without him. Months later the dog returned to Princeton, a distance of 1,500 miles, seeking his old master and mistress.

The Powells had meanwhile returned east and settled in Fairfield, Ind. Friends notified them their dog had returned to their old home, and the result is that today Billie and his master and mistress he loved so greatly as to endure that 1,500 mile trip are together again.

It is a simple story, yet of such a quality of wonderful devotion as to make the hardest heart soften toward all dumb animals.

A Thanksgiving Greeting

IN 1621, after the first harvest of the Pilgrim fathers, Governor Bradford declared the first Thanksgiving Day. Two years later, a day of fasting and prayer in drought was changed to thankfulness by the coming of rain.

The custom of observing a day of thanksgiving spread through the States until, in 1864, President Lincoln proclaimed it a national holiday.

Among the patrons of this Bank are many who have particular cause to be thankful. They are those whose industry and thrift have enabled them to lay aside a portion of their earnings to help them in their opportunities and to provide a bulwark against adversity.

This Bank extends to all its Thanksgiving Greeting.
